13 AT WEDDING BURN TO DEATH

Today

A Mussolini Plan.
Costes and Lebrix.
The Missing Link.
Richest Country.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—
(Copyright, 1928.)

MUSSOLINI says Fascism will be permanent. He plans it so there will be "a place in Italy for each person and each person will occupy it." That, fortunately, is not so. In such a country, no Mussolini would be possible.

He did not stay in his place, or in the prison to which he was sent. He began as a Socialist and became as powerful a dictator as the world has seen.

CROMWELL did not stay in his place, so Charles the First lost his. Danton did not stay in his place, Mirabeau abandoned his place, Robespierre gave up the law, and Louis XVI went via the guillotine. Ability refuses to "stay in its place," and for that reason, there is progress.

DON'T forget the flying Frenchmen, Costes and Lebrix, back in Paris from Tokio, flying 10,370 miles in six days, with seven stops, sleeping not more than four hours on any night, sometimes not sleeping at all.

Those are real fliers, and when they start westward across the Atlantic, as they will, Lloyds will not bet against their success.

CIVILIZATION will begin when men engage only in friendly loyal competition, as these fliers do, instead of killing each other in war, and cheating each other in business.

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS leads an exploring party from New York Museum of Natural History to search for the missing link in Mongolia. Man's career on this earth is supposed to have begun in Mongolia. It is more likely, as Haeckel suggests, that it began in several places at about the same time, various races coming up through evolution, from ancestors quite different.

ONE theory says "the African race from gorillas, the Mongolians race from ourang-outangs, the Caucasian race from chimpanzes," the last animal being the most intelligent, and, in some way, most unpleasant of the three.

HOWEVER and wherever we started, it will be hard to find that missing link between animal and man, and hard to identify him, if found. You cannot identify the link between babyhood and childhood, or between childhood and manhood. It is all so gradual. We slip from infancy to dotage as we climbed from protoplasm to our present forms, with changes imperceptible.

IN New Zealand, everything possible is done for the average man. Workers are protected. public contracts provide for employing older men, on a friendly basis. Railroads owned by the people transport laborers seeking work, free of charge. If they find the work, they pay their fare.

It is no place for a man to get very rich, too many laws protect the average man. It is no country for a go-getter American, that wants to "get his," no matter what happens to others.

ON the other hand, New Zealand, short in hundred-time millionaires, is the richest country in the world, per capita. New Zealand's AVERAGE wealth is $3,371.70. Little Switzerland comes second with $2,998.20. The United States comes third with $2,941.90, and Russia's is last, with an average per capita wealth of $216.60.

That, however, is the fault of the stupid czars. Russia will not remain poor. With such a ruler as Peter the Great, civilized, Russia would be the world's richest country.

GOV. SMITH, of New York, is warmly welcomed in the South, and is as good as nominated, now.

He visits a fire engine house in North Carolina, says "Hell, boys," to the men, and they know that he has been in many a fire house before, and understands the work done there.

MANY friends offer advice about his campaign, and how to run it. He is advised, here, to put his charming daughter in charge of the campaign speech making. She understands it.

LONDON was amazed when Henry Ford made a speech of only 29 words. Gov. Smith's daughter would call that extreme verbosity. Her speech, when her father ran for governor last time, was 21 words shorter than Ford's London speech. "I hope you will all vote for father," was the speech, and they all did, apparently.

COMMANDER BYRD'S air voyage to the South Pole will be useful, as well as romantic. He will probably send back his planes to protect them from crumpling, crushing ice, while he spends months in Antarctic exploration. Gentlemen whose business is making money, after others tell where it can be found, expect many things from this Byrd adventure.

THERE is copper in the Antarctic regions, and gold probably. Ice-cold gold fields, near the South Pole, would draw crowds as did the hot African fields.

For gold, men will go anywhere, run any risk.

COMMANDER BYRD will also hunt the new retreat of the Antarctic fur bearing seal, which has retired from its old haunts, and bring back information about whales, very numerous, near the South Pole.

Important scientific news is hoped for from the expedition including important data about the tides in the Antarctic Ocean, but reliable information about new

BRIDE AND GROOM KILLED WITH 11

ALTOONA, Pa., April 16.—A wedding celebration turned from gay laughter to tragedy at Blair Four, a mining settlement, early today, when 13 persons, including the bride and groom, were burned to death.

A mother and her seven children and five guests were trapped by the flames that destroyed the home of Embro Krepachalk, Slavish quarryman, soon after the week-end revelry had reached its height.

Annie Krepachalk, 18, and John Zerbonitz, 19, of Ganister, had been married Saturday—and the celebration had continued over the Sabbath.

Besides the bride and groom, the dead were Mrs. Anna Krepachalk, 38, and children, Katie, 17; Sally, 15; Verona, 12; Michael, 13; George, 6, and Nick, 7; Peter Zerbonitz, 43, brother of the bridegroom; Carl Chisholm, 31; Thomas Hosechich, 43, and Joseph Rendolich, 26.

It was believed that all members of the party had retired for the night and they were not awakened by Kretachalk's cries. He was awakened by the dense smoke which filled the house and endeavored to awaken other members as he escaped from the house.

There is no fire protection in Blair Four, a small hamlet, where a stone quarry is located.

Fall Kills Woman

Searching for her husband in a garage at Cedar avenue and North Canal stret, North Side, early this morning, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 41, of 409 East Ohio street, plunged to her death through a doorway on the second floor. Falling to the pavement in Cedar avenue, the woman suffered injuries which caused her death two hours later in the Allegheny General Hospital. Four men under arrest pending an investigation were released.

Lock Vote Jury

BULLETIN.

Two of the five defendants in the Twentieth district were not placed on trial when the case was started in Judge Rowand's courtroom and they were expected to testify for the prosecutor. They are Margaret Ring and Charles Fuller.

All juries which hear the cases against election officials accused of cheating will be locked up each night and kept under the strict supervision of the court.

This was the significant development today as members of two election boards went on trial in Criminal Court in the first of the prosecutions against some 200 vote counters of Allegheny county.

From the bench, visiting Judge J. Frank Graff announced the order, "because of the importance of the case." Usually the jury is kept under court supervision over-night only in murder trials.

COURT JAMMED

A jury of six men and six women had just been picked in the first case, that against the board members in the Fourteenth District, Twenty-first Ward, when it became evident that one of the members had turned state's evidence. Joseph H. Klein, a judge of election, was not formally arraigned and was expected to be a witness for the prosecution.

Judge Harry H. Rowand was the presiding jurist in the prosecution against the second group, the election board of the Twentieth District, Twenty-first Ward, whose trial was begun this afternoon.

The defendants are: Fourteenth District—Clarence A. Bower and James Williamson, inspectors; Anna Alston and Clara A. Manes, clerks. Twentieth District—Benjamin Foster, judge of elections; William Trautetter and Margaret Ring, inspectors; Charles Fuller and John Blair, clerks.

Judge Graff's courtroom was packed with politicians and others deeply interested in the prosecutions which grew out of vote-counting at the last September primaries. Attorney Rody P. Marshall, counsel for all the defendants, and Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Klunk were the opposing counsel.

COAL MEN TO BARE ALL TO SENATE

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee decided today to require the Southern West Virginia coal operators to answer the questions, asked in pursuance of the committee's investigation of the coal strike, to which the operators objected. Scarcely 10 minutes after Senator Frank R. Gooding, of Idaho, acting chairman, had stated that there was no hope of reaching a decision in the matter before Wednesday, and that the Ohio operators would be examined, pending its settlement, the committee unexpectedly voted to accept a compromise plan offered by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada.

Pittman's resolution paraphrased the questions in such a way that while the information to be elicited is substantially the same as was at first contemplated, the form in which they are put is not quite so odious to the operators as the original queries were. Moreover, in some cases totals are called for, but the operators are excused from disclosing the items which enter into the totals.

The West Virginians, who had been breathing defiance of the committee and threatening to take the question of its authority into the courts, promptly acquiesced in the new arrangement and promised to give all of the information sought.

UNION PLEASED

D. W. Boone and James D. Boone, brothers, whose great-grandfather was a nephew of Daniel Boone, the famous pioneer, went on the stand and testified concerning the operations of mines that they own in Southern West Virginia. Notwithstanding that they pay wages considerably lower than the United Mine Workers demand, they have lost money for a number of years, they stated. They require their miners to sign contracts in which they pledge themselves not to join the union.

The union officials, who looked upon the committee's decision to require the West Virginians to answer questions as a great victory, were pleased with the Boones' testimony, because, they affirmed, it sustained their contention that the remedy for the distress of the coal industry does not lie in wage reduction.

IRISH FLIER HOPS OFF ISLAND

QUEBEC, April 16.—(AP.)—Wireless operators at Clarke City this afternoon said that Commandant Fitzmaurice, of the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen, had left Greenley Island in a Canadian Transcontinental Airways Company plane.

The Irish aviator will be taken either to Father Point or Quebec, as weather conditions permit, and will proceed, when possible, to New York. His companions in the trans-Atlantic flight, Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Koehl, remain on the island and will attempt to repair the plane so as to complete the flight to New York.

The plane bringing Commandant Fitzmaurice from the lonely island where the Bremen landed on Friday is that flown to them yesterday from Murray Bay by Dr. Cuisinier and C. A. "Duke" Schiller.

In the meantime, spare parts for the Bremen were on the way from New York by rail, to be transferred to a plane in Canada.

THREE ALTERNATIVES

If they are unable to make repairs, the fliers have three alternatives:

They can fly to Quebec in one of the relief planes.

They can await the government steamer which could carry them and their plane to a Canadian port.

They can await spare parts and fuel and complete their flight.

Efforts were being made to locate benzol—the high pressure fuel needed by the Bremen—in Canada so

BEAT DEATH, FLIERS TELL

[The Sun-Telegraph herewith presents the first actual account of the Bremen's heroic flight over the North Atlantic. Sent out from Blanc Sablon, nearest land wire station to Greenley Island, where the fliers are stranded, their experiences, as told to the three news services serving this paper, form an amazing tale of danger, of death stalking in storm, in fog and ocean; of tremendous handicaps—how their plane, weighted down with ice, almost proved too frail to buck the elements; and, above all, a tale of unflinching courage which buoyed up the three airmen and helped them "carry on" even when death appeared but an instant away. Follows the graphic account, written from combined statements of the fliers, Capt. Koehl, Baron von Huenefelt and Commander Fitzmaurice:]

"We were almost ready to give up hope when land suddenly appeared. We had no definite idea where we were. We had been flying blindly for hours in an inky fog. All we knew was that our fuel was running low; that we had to land shortly or crash into the unknown below.

"The old ship was bucking a snowstorm. Fog, storm and an erratic compass made our situation look hopeless. We had to do something and do it quick.

"We were flying high for safety, but now we decided to drop lower, hoping that the fog would not be so dense below and that perhaps we would be able to make out land.

"Down we headed. The Bremen responded slowly to the controls, making a gradual descent throughthe thick murk. All three of us strained our eyes in a supreme effort to penetrate the fog. Less and less dense did it seem to grow as we came lower; then at last we were able to make out a dark outline beneath.

"Was it land?

"Or was it the ocean?

"The next instant our question was answered. It was land! We all sent up a sort of cheer. We had made it safely westward

MINISTERS COMING FOR STRIKE PROBE

International News Service

CHICAGO, April 16.—A group of Methodist and Congregational ministers of Chicago will visit Pittsburgh this week to investigate the coal mining situation, it was announced today at the meeting with the Methodist ministers' conference.

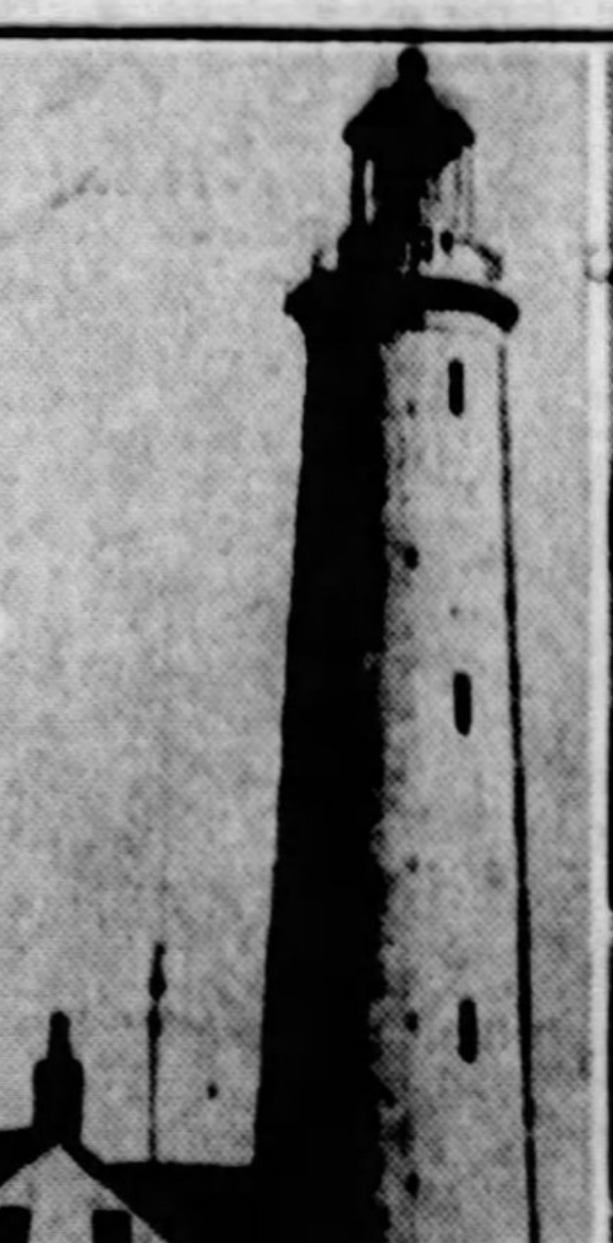
The program calls for a meeting with the mine operators one day and on the next day the ministers will confer with representatives of the miners' organization.

On their return, the ministers will submit a complete report on the situation, with the recommendations for any action to be taken.

Bremen Reached "MAY HOP TODAY" Repairs Rushed

BY DOGS

Dogs in Labrador carried the news to the nearest radio station when the Bremen landed on lonely Greenley Island. Now, reached by Duke Schiller and Dr. Luis Cuisiner, aviators, the Bremen crew radios from Pt. Armour, which flashed the news of its safety to the world, "will leave under own power Monday or Tuesday." Repairs on the plane are rushed.

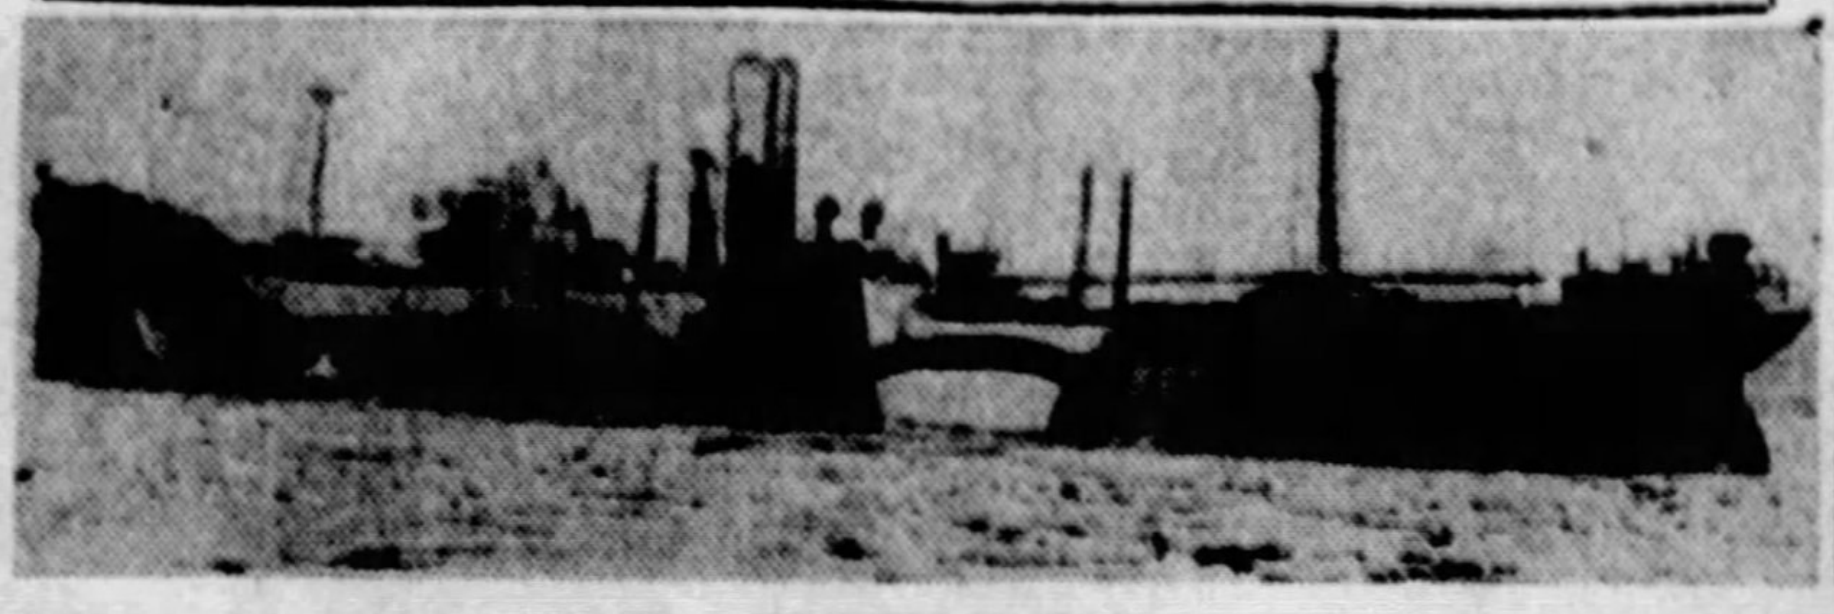


LONELY LIGHT

This is the lonely radio lighthouse at Pt. Armour. The meager supply of gasoline on an island will be shared with the Bremen.

FIRST WORD

Stewart Davis, 18, amateur radio operator at Manchester, N. H., is officially credited with receiving the first word that the Bremen had landed. He was "combing the sky" and intercepted the message from the northern station, relaying it to newspapers.



MAROONED

BLEAK

This bleak land is the coast of Labrador and is, with the exception of the lack of ice and snow here at this time, typical country such as that which holds the Bremen's crew. Now, New York is preparing anew to welcome the Bremen.

Toledo Bandits Shoot Policeman in $20,000 Holdup

GUN MEN FLEE IN CAR

TOLEDO, April 16.—(AP.) Four bandits shot and probably fatally injured a patrolman with a machine gun today and escaped with nearly $20,000 in cash and securities after kidnaping four express messengers at the Union Station.

The quartet headed toward Detroit in a scout car taken from the wounded patrolman and his companion.

The four messengers were disarmed by the bandits less than a block from the station. They were bound and gagged with adhesive tape and bundled into the rear of the express truck.

As the quartet unloaded two steel safes containing the cash and securities, John White, a student, drove by and was held up by the thugs, who bound him and put him in the back of the truck with the guards. Then they loaded the two safes in their own car and in the one White had driven and sped to a private garage, where they opened one safe, removed its contents and were preparing to open the other when they were interrupted by the appearance of a police car.

With machine-gun fire they felled Patrolman George Zientara, and forced Patrolman J. V. Biskupski to abandon the machine.

VILLAGE

Only 14 people are said to inhabit Greenley Island, off Labrador, but they are doing their best to extend their meager hospitality to the three men whom the world is attempting to reach. At this point, Baron von Huenefeld, Capt. Koehl and Col. Fitzmaurice, only men to conquer the Northern Atlantic from the east, are rushing repairs on the Bremen.

To Rescue

that it might be at hand if repairs on the big monoplane are made and she attempts to continue her flight.

Messages from the fliers to the outside world, telling of their plans and their hope to leave in the Bremen "shortly" presumably were carried by dog team to Point Amour, 25 miles from Greenley Island.

Many of these messages, however, were believed lost along with those sent by many agencies to the fliers.

"Why don't you reply to our message? No reply received," Baron von Huenefeld wired Miss Junkers.

Many messages had been sent to the Baron from New York associates, including an order for $500, and must have been lost on the last storm-swept part of their journey.

SPARE PARTS RUSHED

The following reply was sent to Baron Von Huenefeld:

"Mechanic and spare parts will arrive at Quebec Flying Field Monday afternoon. Benzol following. Herta will fly F-13 to Montreal Monday, weather permitting, and will take further action there. Will keep you informed of further developments and plans. Please do the same to North German Lloyd."

No propeller was sent to Quebec as the only other Junker propeller is on the plane F-13, which Miss Junkers and Fred Melchoir, the company pilot, are to fly north. The Bremen used a special metal propeller designed especially for this flight, and as it was probably only bent, Junkers' officials here believed it could be straightened and reshaped by Koehl and Fitzmaurice.

The fliers, undoubtedly worn and nervous from their battle with the elements, labored to repair their plane they did not forget the usual international courtesies.

Premier MacKenzie King, of Canada, at Ottawa, received this message:

"Having landed in your great country in the German aeroplane Breman on the first successful crossing of the Atlantic from East to West, we have received the greatest courtesy, hospitality and assistance. We beg to express our great appreciation. Please accept respectful greetings from the German-Irish crew of the Bremen."

WIRE AMBASSADOR

To the German ambassador at Washington, F. W. Prittwitz-Gaffron, they wired.

"After having successfully accomplished by God's grace the east to west Atlantic flight, the crew of the German air plane Bremen send their greetings to the German ambassador."

Commandant Fitzmaurice sent this message to Irish Free State Minister Smiddy, at Washington:

"By God's grace, east to west Atlantic flight at last accomplished. Am happy in thought that it brings credit and honor to our native land. My German comrades, Koehl and Huenefeld, join me in sending you greetings from Erin. Hope to reach New York in a few days."

Dr. Cuisiner and Schiller, the fliers who won through to the Bremen, both have distinguished flying records.

Dr. Cuisiner was with the French air forces during the war, fighting against two of the men to whose aid he has now gone. Schiller last summer planned an ocean flight to Europe with Phil Wood, but the backers of the project withdrew after the loss of the Old Glory and the Sir John Carling. He then brought the Royal Windsor, the plane he was to have used in the ocean attempt, to New York and competed in the cross-country air derby to Spokane, Wash. He attempted a non-stop flight, but was forced down when his gas gave out before he reached Spokane.

A snowstorm at Berlin prevented an aerial parade planned in honor of the birthday of Capt. Koehl. But the weather did not prevent Lufthansa, the German Airways Company, from christening its largest and most modern plane the Hermann Koehl, in honor of the flier. He had been a pilot for the company before undertaking the ocean flight.

Fitzmaurice To Fly Back Home

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice, Irish aviator who made the westward flight across the Atlantic in the plane "Bremen" with Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenfeld, plans to fly back to Ireland, according to J. V. Martin, president of the Martin Aeroplane Company, of Garden City, N. Y.

"Fitzmaurice's ambition is to be the first aviator to make a roundtrip over the Atlantic by airplane," declared Martin. He showed letters he had received from the daring Irish pilot stating that it was Fitzmaurice's plan to fly the Atlantic both ways.

5,000 MORE CLAIMED STRIKING

Insurgent mine leaders claim upwards of 5,000 nonunion miners have answered the "Save the Union" strike call broadcast throughout Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio today. At a number of mines, the strike-breakers are reported by the committee to have walked out 100 per cent.

Operators throughout the district deny any great number of men have quit work. "It is the usual after-pay-day situation," one operator explained this morning. "What with the United Mine Workers' strike call April 1, East Sunday, a week later, Russian Easter coming yesterday and payday Saturday, it is an wonder we have anyone at work."

In the immediate vicinity of Pittsburgh, reports from state police and deptuy sherfs indicate the "Save the Union" committee strike call was a "flop." Several demonstrations were held in widely scattered sections, according to the reports, but only a few of the strike-breakers joined the ranks of the insurgents, it was said. The biggest demonstrations were held at Castle Shannon, Kinloch and Avella. A parade of about 75 strikers was broken up by state police at Castle Shannon. The strikers carried banners urging "Spread the Strike" and "Oust Lewis."

KINLOCH PARADE

About 150 persons turned out at Kinloch, where they staged a demonstration lasting nearly an hour. Four nonunion miners left their jobs, according to police. The scheduled march on the Logans Ferry mine did not materialize.

At Avella, where the "Save-the-Union" committee reports 350 miners have answered the strike call, two state police dispersed a crowd of more than 100 pickets. Men, women and children joined in a demonstration at the P. & W. mine thil morning, the troopers said.

Other mines where the "Save-the-Union" committee reports nonunion men walked out 100 per cent include; Isabella mine, near Brownsville; Thompson No. 1, near Republic; Delmont mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Westmoreland county.

In Greene county the following reports were made by insurgent leaders: Pitt Gas Company mine, 70 per cent; Clarksville mine, 90 per cent; Chartiers mine, 100 per cent.

At the Tower Hill mine, "Save-the-Union" leaders say over half of the strikebreakers walked out this morning, while at Coverdale mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, only half of the usual crew showed up this morning.

WOMEN JOINS PICKETS

A number of women joined the insurgent pickets at Rich Hill mine of the McClane Mining Company at Meadowlands this morning, but they were ordered to their homes by state police, who patrolled the district and kept the men walking in pairs. "Save the Union" headquarters reported seven women had been arrested at this mine during the past week on charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct. They were to be given hearings today before Alderman John Carmichael, of Washington, Pa.

Another woman was lodged in the Allegheny county jail yesterday. She was arrested at the Coverdale mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation while distributing strike literature, according to "Save the Union" leaders. She is Mary Lester, of Pittsburgh.

Tourists entering and leaving Pittsburgh over the Liberty Bridge will be given opportunities to familiarize themselves quickly with the city and its principal thoroughfares, if County Commissioners approve of this map to be painted on the retaining wall of the new span. As welcomers waited in New York, the Junkers Bremen was forced down on a lonely northern isle after its non-stop flight to America from Europe. Now, fliers have reached them and repairs to the plane are rushed in the hope that "today or tomorrow" they can continue to Mitchel Field, where (above) Mayor Walker, Capt. This ship, the Bremen, is the first conqueror of the treacherous North Atlantic. Here, it is being fuelled at the Dublin aerodome from which it hopped off on the trip.

Undismayed by the ship's delay, the women would "have waited forever without word of the German plane while it was in the air." They are Mrs. O. C. Now that Dr. Luis Cuisiner and Duke Schiller, aviators, have reached Greenley to help the Bremen's crew, they will be back waiting for the ship when it does land at Mitchel Field.

NORTH POLE FLIGHT PERILED BY STORM

STOLP, Pomerania, Germany, April 16.—(AP.)—Gen. Umberto Nobile brought his polar dirigible Italia through a night of head winds and electrical storms landing at Seddin Airdrome, six miles from here this morning.

The Italian airship with which he hopes to explore north polar regions landed at Seddin at 8:35 a. m., and was immediately placed in the hangar. It had taken the craft 30 hours and 40 minutes to come from Milan, which is about 680 miles from here by airline.

Apparently the only damage suffered by the ship was the tearing of the left stabilizer.

The hum of the Italia's motors was first heard by those on the field at 7:55. The weather was cloudy with a little wind and the sun was beginning to shine through the clouds. Ten minutes after the motors had been heard the dirigible was over the field. It described a large circle and then reappeared. The ballast was thrown out and soldiers grasped the landing ropes pulling it down.

When the gondola touched the ground, Gen. Nobile stood at the door of the cabin and beside him his shivering mascot Titania, the dog which flew over the north pole with him in the Norge. Nobile stepped out and was heartily cheered by the spectators.

"We had a terrible storm over the Carpathian Mountains," Gen. Nobile told the Associated Press correspondent, "and I am exceedingly proud of the Italia. She behaved perfectly. I am quite confident the North Pole expedition will be a success. The motors and our instruments functioned perfectly, in spite of electric storms, so I am confident that the Italia is everything that could be wanted for the expedition.

"At Gleiwitz Airdrome, the authorities tried to persuade us to come down, but we were determined to proceed. We did, however ask for meteorological information, as we had lost our bearings and had to cruise back and forth for two hours until the information came from Lindenberg and Prague.

"The Italia was in real danger only during the electrical storm, but I never for the moment thought of turning back. The crew was excellent, the best I ever had."

There were only about a hundred persons at the airdrome to greet the ship besides soldiers, police and newspaper correspondents. Gen. Nobile gave instructions not to bother about permits. He said: "Let everybody see the Italia, but don't smoke."

Political Worker Kidnaped

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP.)—Into the precincts of North Riverside, little suburb of 406 voters, the strife of politics aparently has found its way with the kidnaping of Chester Coddy, regular Citizens' Party campaign worker, by three armed men yesterday.

Coddy, supporter of Robert B. Noha, Citizens' candidate for reelection as president of the village board, was abducted by the trio when he answered a knock at his door yesterday morning and was found several hours later lying unconscious in a ditch five miles from his home. He had been beaten into insensibility.

The village election comes tomorrow and the bitter campaign and Coddy's activity in supporting Noha, dry candidate, was blamed for the kidnaping.

Hotel Fire At Shore Kills 1

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 16.—(AP.)—An unidentified man was killed and six other men and two women were seriously injured today when fire destroyed the Iroquois Hotel at South Carolina avenue and the Boardwalk.

Ninety-eight persons were in the building.

The injured included Celia Boyland, of Jersey City, who was believed to have fractured her spine in a leap from the third floor into a firemen's net.

Discovered shortly before 7 o'clock, the flames spread quickly to the upper floors of the hotel. The home of the late Mayor Bader, on Ocean avenue, was among the adjoining structures damaged.

REVENGE OR SUICIDE BLAMED FOR BLAST

WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 16.—(AP.)—Revenge and financial troubles were two motives advanced today by Prosecuting Attorney Green as he pressed his investigation into the cause of the explosion that destroyed a dance hall here last week, killing 40 persons.

Green suggested that J. M. Wiser, 47, who rented a garage below the dance hall, may have been responsible for the blast, either because of pronounced views against dancing or because financial troubles may have led him to suicide. Wiser, a devout churchman, was killed in the explosion. He had not made public expression of his hatred of dancing here, but at his former home in Alton, Mo., he was known as violently opposed to it.

The prosecutor pointed out also that so far as direct evidence shows, Wiser might have caused the explosion accidentally. He is confident, however, that it was not caused by gasoline fumes, as at first supposed.

BODY EXHUMED

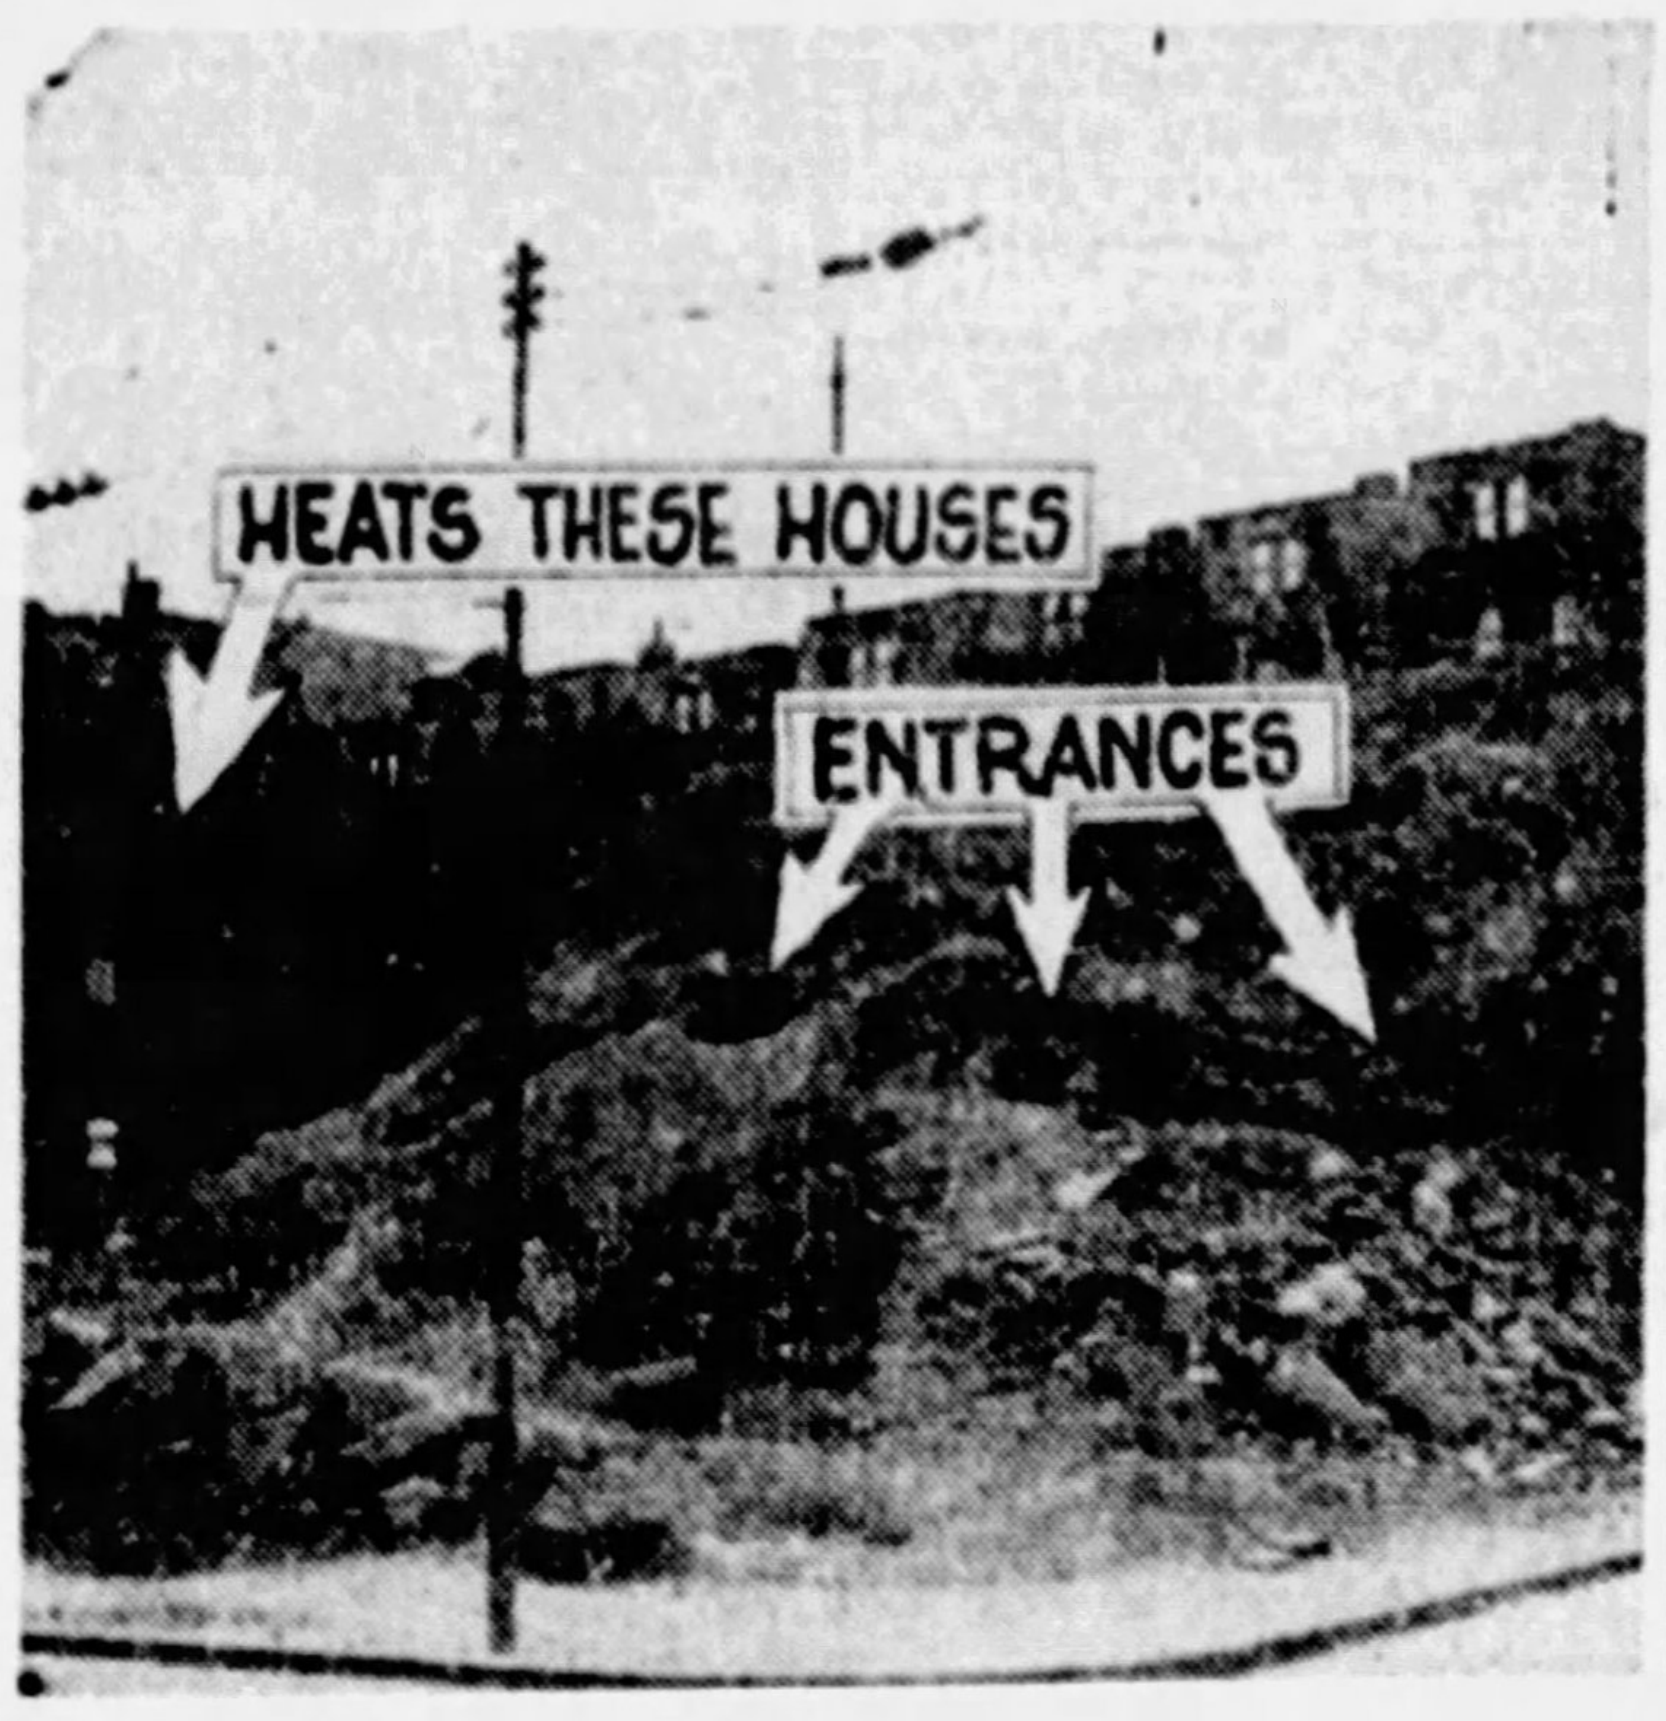
Wiser's body, which was exhumed late yesterday shortly after burial, revealed burns on the face believed by physicians to have been caused by acid. These, said Green, might have resulted while handling acid.

Green said he had witnesses ready to testify that Wiser was at the garage 20 minutes before the blast occurred, and that one man claims he saw a sputtering light there—a light that flickered for a few moments and went out just before the building was blown up. Wiser's body was found 20 feet back of the garage.

Coroner Burns held to the theory that Wiser went to the garage, opened the door and struck a match which ignited gasoline fumes.

On the other hand, Green pointed out the 50-gallon tank in the garage was found intact and had not been leaking.

CITY CREW ATTACKS -:- Smoldering Hill Mine -:- THREATENS 15 HOUSES



BURNS TWO YEARS

A coal vein near Sommers street and Wylie avenue, smoldering for almost two years, threatens, "Hill" residents say, at least 15 houses. The city's department of public works has directed its attention on the fire. The constant burning heats up the houses indicated above.

CONSTRUCTION, IN NEAR FUTURE, TO COST $5,000,000

New freight and produce terminals will be erected by the Pennsylvania Railroad in the near future, it has been revealed by W. D. Wiggins, Central region, chief engineer, and G. W. Sixsmith, Conemaugh division, superintendent. The project will cost $5,000,000, including the purchase of two parcels of river property now held by Carnegie Steel Company and the Mackintosh Hemphill Company. The Carnegie warehouse and the Mackintosh plant will be razed and the new freight terminal built where they now stand. The produce terminal will be erected above the Sixteenth Street Bridge. This building, housing offices, auction quarters and package platform, 1,250 feet long and 100 feet wide, will extend from Sixteenth street to Twenty-first street.

HOW DEATH SNATCHED AT FLIERS IS TOLD

across the Atlantic, the first fliers ever to do it!

"But now that we had discovered land beneath us, what were we to do? We did not know where we were; we had only the notion that we ought to be somewhere over Newfoundland. Holding a hasty consultation, and finding that we had enough fuel for a few hours' more flying we quickly decided that we would push on in an attempt to get as near our landing goal, New York, as possible.

Up Again

"Up again the Bremen swung. Still battling the snowstorms we climbed thicker and thicker into the fog once more. The winds became stronger and more furious, making our plane literally quiver in the tremendous force of the gale.

"But, despite the fact that our fuel was getting lower and lower, despite the fact that we were in constant danger of being plunged to our death in a treacherous air pocket, despite the perils of the fog, we kept on, buoyed and happy over discovering that we were across the Atlantic."

"From information we have now, we realize that we must have made several circles in the flight at this point. We remained in the air approximately four hours after first sighting land and yet, as we now find out, it was only about 40 or 50 miles from the eastern coastline of Newfoundland to the spot where we came down on Greenley Island.

"At about 5:30 p. m., Friday, we realized that we had flown as long as we could; that our fuel supply was about gone; that we had to make a landing no matter how perilous it might be. So we headed the Bremen's nose downward once more.

"Suddenly our hearts chilled. When we had climbed into the sky the last time, we had left land beneath us; but now we espied below a forbidding, tossing expanse of water. Such was luck!

"Only for an instant, however, did our gloom last. Nearby we sighted an island and made for it directly. Flying low we were ready to land as soon as we could discover an even halfway suitable stretch.

Welcome Lake

"As we circled slowly over the island, a tiny lake appeared almost beneath. It was the most welcome lake we ever saw, all the more so because it appeared to be frozen over. To come down on water we had no pontoons and to come down on ice we had no skis—but what did it matter? We had run tremendous risks in flying this far; we had exposed our lives and succeeded in an adventure which had brought death to the immortal Airman Nungesser and his companion Coli, had brought death to a score of other fliers; so why should we now worry about a mere cracking up on this ice stretch, the only suitable place for landing?

"We came down. We came down cautiously. A man guarding a ton of TNT couldn't have been more careful than we were when we eased the Bremen onto the ice. All the tricks of aviation were used in that landing. Slowly and gently the ship glided onto the ice.

"There was a loud 'click!' The three of us sat still in plane, thinking that the ice was going to give way. But nothing happened; we knew we were safe.

"Where Are We?"

"We stepped out of the Bremen, and there, running towards us across the ice came three or four figures, the first human beings we had seen since our take-off at Baldonnel Field. The figures were the inhabitants of the island, which we learned was a fishing station, and which sheltered about 14 persons in all. They wanted to know who we were, and appeared incredulous when we told them that we had just landed after a flight across the ocean from Ireland. They had not seen any newspapers, and were unaware that such a flight had been attempted.

"In the crude ways of that outlying civilization they made us welcome.

"'Where are we?' was our first question.

"'Greenley Island,' was the reply.

"'Greenley Island?'

Clue to Others' Fate

"'Yes; it's off Labrador.'

"Imagine our surprise. Here we were away up north, when we thought we had reached one of the southern points of Newfoundland.

"Now it became clear why so many of the other fliers had perished in the flight which we had accomplished. Many of them may have gone to their deaths in the brine, but certainly some of them died through becoming lost in this bleak territory.

"With strong winds veering all these westward trans-Atlantic planes constantly to the north, and with the compass erratic, it was no wonder that these fliers, even as we had, should lose their course.

"Through the grace of God, we had succeeded where these others had failed. We had won our fight. We had blazed a new trail. We felt proud. But at the same time we felt humble at the thought of these martyrs giving their lives unselfishly to the progress of aviation.

Plane Damaged

"One of our welcomers was Jacques Le Templier, keeper of the Greenly Island lighthouse. From him we first learned our bearings. We studied our maps to see how far we had been blown off our course and how far we must fly to reach the United States; for we still had our hearts set upon landing on Mitchel Field, Long Island.

"Before we had taken off from Baldonnell, Baron Von Huenefeld had said our destination was 'Mitchel Field or heaven.' Well, if we weren't going to heaven, we would at least try to make Mitchel Field.

"The good old Bremen was there resting on the ice; what was to prevent a continuance of the flight? We recalled that loud 'crack that sounded when we landed and, going over to the plane, decided to give it a close inspection.

"The tail had been broken; the damages were more serious than we had expected. To further complicate matters, we were confronted with a lack of fuel. Le Templier had a supply of gasoline in the lighthouse, but not the kind that could be used in the Bremen. So we were compelled to abandon any project of a quick take-off, and decided to accept the hospitality of the little settlement.

"Lucky, indeed, we were, to be able to accept this hospitality. Considering our flight, it was an amazing thing that we were here alive, in this barren island off Labrador. We had, it is true, an auspicious start from Ireland. After leaving Baldonnel airdrome we encountered unexpectedly favorable weather on the entire first part of the flight. The skies were clear, the wind becalmed as we sped westward.

"About mid-Atlantic, however, the winds became stronger and we ran into our first serious fogbank, forcing us to dip the plane down to a dangerously low altitude. Here we found it easier to buck the winds, but we had to buck them and fight them every mile. On this stretch the plane was flying so low that the choppy Atlantic almost lapped the landing gear.

Compass Fails

"We had now been flying about 20 hours, and believed we must be over Newfoundland. Then worse luck came! The compass began to fail, the needle quivering frantically; and, what was almost as bad, we ran into snow and hail.

"Fog—snow and hail—a smashing wind—a compass gone bad! Cruising through the air knowing naught where we were, but believing we were over the southern point of Newfoundland. That described our situation on Friday afternoon. Then, when we had flown long enough to believe that we were safely over the North American continent, we decided to descend as low as possible in an effort to sight land.

"The fog lifted temporarily and brought us fresh cheer. By this temporary dissolving of the murk we got our first glimpse of an icebreg, and realized for the first time that we had strayed into the frigid North.

"It was quite a shock to know that we appeared to be off the charted course, and we hastily headed the plane more to the southward. Then the fact that the fog appeared to be lifting buoyed up our hopes. However, this good omen was short-lived; for we presently flew into a fog bank much denser and more foreboding than the one we had left behind.

Hope About Gone

"At this point the chances of success appeared the slimmest. We feared we were running into the same spot which had brought defeat to Nungesser and Coli, to Princess Anne of Lowenstein-Wertheim and her two companions, and to the Hon. Elsie Mackay and Capt. Walter Hinchliffe.

"But we pressed the hardy Junkers plane on in the face of the storm and fog. We tried to hold the place to the course, but found it impossible. The winds were carrying the Bremen northward almost as though she had no power at all. We were utterly unable to compute the mileage, so uncertain was the forward progress we were making."

Land at Last

"At this juncture we made our first drop downward and first sighted land.

"Land! That magic word to us meant everything.

"But we did not wish to come down here; we decided to play out our string to the end, in the hope that we might make New York. And so we soared on again into storm and fog.

"That hope, however, was futile. The exhaustion of the fuel supply and the coat of ice weighing the plane down made a landing imperative. Therefore we brought the gallant Bremen safely down on Greenley Island.

"If it is possible to repair the Bremen and obtain a supply of benzol, we intend to continue our flight in it to New York. The examination we made of the plane after the landing shows that it is not irreparably damaged; but the proper materials are necessary to put it back into shape.

"Two gallant airmen, Dr. Luis Cuisner and Charles Schiller, have succeeded in flying 600 miles to us here. They have brought us news of the keen interest which the whole world seems to have displayed in our adventure. You can imagine that the three of us are delightfully appreciative and pleased that our success has evoked such a spontaneous response of good will.

"Our flight has proved that the North Atlantic can be conquered from East to West, as Lindbergh's flight proved that it could be conquered from West to East.

"Aviation reaps the benefit. That has been our sole aim, as it has been the sole aim of all the other flying pioneers. The day is coming, we firmly believe, when such flights will be an ordinary occurence. Bigger planes, charted courses and more scientific methods of navigation eventually will make a flight over the ocean as safe as a trip across country on an up-to-date train."

COOLIDGE HAS 70 SHARES OF STEEL

HOBOKEN, N. J., April 16.—(AP.) Declaration of a 40 per cent stock dividend by the United States Steel Corporation last year has resulted in a numerical increase in the share holdings of President Coolidge, George F. Baker, Sr., and many of the other prominent stockholders, it was revealed at the annual meeting of the corporation here today.

President Coolidge, who has held 50 shares of the stock for several years, now owns 70 shares, the additional 20 representing the stock dividend. George F. Baker, Sr., now owns 77,000 shares as against 49,950 a year ago.

FARRELL SELLS PREFERRED

James A. Farrell, president of the company, increased his holdings of common from 315 shares to 603 and reduced his holdings of preferred stock from 4,950 to 4,850. Mr. Taylor continues to hold 40,001 shares of common.

J. P. Morgan, chairman of the board, added to his holdings of common, now owning 1,261 shares of common as compared with 901, and bought 105 shares of preferred stock.

William J. Filbert, comptroller of the corporation now owns 1,659 shares of common as compared with 1,134 last year, and retains his holdings of 1,904 shares of preferred.

Former Gov. Nathan L. Miller reduced his holdings of common, retaining 1,001 of his 3,450 shares. Eugene J. Buffington also sold some of his holdings of common, retaining 753 of his original 1,133.

The estate of Elbert H. Gary, late chairman of the board, holds 1,887 shares of preferred and 3,741 shares of common. Mrs. Emma T. Gary holds 3,778 shares of preferred and 29 shares of common. J. P. Morgan & Co. holds 12 shares of preferred stock.

J. P. Morgan, Percival Roberts, Jr., and R. V. Lindabury, as a profit-sharing committee, hold two blocks of common stock, one of 16,-298 and the other of 18,762 shares.

Thomas W. Lamont, a member of J. P. Morgan & Co., was nominated for one of the vacancies on the board of directors.

BY-LAWS CHANGED

A number of changes in by-laws were approved by stockholders, among them an increase in the membership of the finance committee to nine from eight.

Another change provides that the chairmen of the board and the finance committee should not be executive officers, but that executive officers should be under their control, with the president of the corporation the chief executive officer. This change apparently relieves Mr. Morgan and Mr. Taylor of detailed work and permits them to continue with other undertakings, at the same time holding control of the corporation, while President Farrell retains active direction.

Under another change, the annual meeting of stockholders will be held in the city where the executive offices, rather than the corporate office, are located, which will bring the stockholders hereafter to New York City instead of Hoboken.

Including stock voted there was represented at the meeting in person and by proxy a total of 1,945,-966 preferred shares, and 4,085,148 common shares, or about half of each outstanding.

LAMONT NAMED DIRECTOR

Thomas W. Lamont, member of J. P. Morgan & Co., was elected a director. Other directors were reelected.

Asked by a stockholder if a statement on business conditions would be forthcoming, Chairman Taylor said the annual report had covered the situation thoroughly and reflected the views of directors and officers on conditions of trade at the moment and future prospects. Comment on operations in the annual report, previously published, then was read to the gathering.

Mr. Taylor said stockholders would continue to receive monthly tonnage reports, also quarterly profit and loss accounts, beyond which it was felt there was nothing further to be added, as these statements and the last annual report were comprehensive and complete.

Announcing THE BRIDAL WINDOWS

Which Will Be Unveiled Tonight at 7:30

By

Miss Aileen Stanley

Starring in "A Night in Spain" at the Alvin Theater This Week

The Joseph Horne Co. pays its tribute to the Brides of 1928, this week, through the Annual Bridal Windows, which will be unveiled this evening at the above hour with suitable ceremony.

The Bridal Windows originated as a development of the traditional favor with which brides, for generations, have looked upon this store to furnish their trousseaux. These windows, repeated each year with constantly increasing elaborateness and attention to detail, have become an institution attracting thousands of visitors annually.

Some indication of the national recognition which they have achieved may be gathered from the fact that more than 50 representatives of large stores throughout the country—decorators, stylists and similarly interested persons—have indicated their intention of being present this evening.

The unveiling is a ceremony of great interest. Each year a prominent actress assists at the dedication. As one by one the 18 windows are revealed, each a chapter in the romance of a bride, the white ribbon with its miniature bridal bouquet which releases each curtain is tossed to the crowd, and there is a good-natured scramble among the feminine spectators to catch these souvenirs of the occasion.

The windows will be continued throughout the week, and may be seen by evening as well as by day.

It Is "Bridal Week" Throughout the Store

With showings of trousseau garments, apparel for attendants and guests, the latest luggage for honeymoon travel, bridal gifts, and everything which will contribute to smart spring and summer weddings, the store, throughout, is most interesting and attractive.

All apparel shown in the bridal windows is from our Galleries of Fashion.

Will Gives Tip On How to Fly West

NEW YORK, April 16.—That certainly was nice of that Irishman to let those two Germans stay in there with him when he saw the load was so big they couldn't make any time against that wind. You folks thought I was kidding you when I have been telling you all this time about these head winds. The reason they make it going the other way is because they got Congress behind 'em. The only sure way to have a successful trip made this way is to have our Congress meet in Ireland. There is no politics in it, but Smith is the only fellow that ever went South for a vacation in the summer time. I am going out to see Andy Cohen. He is bigger than Aimee McPherson out home.

KIN BETRAYED; SLAYS MAN

Peter Cirigliano, 16, of Lowries Run, Ohio township, was turned over to the coroner today in connection with the killing of Rosario Ficaro, alias Ross McKay, 27, of McKinney avenue, Stowe township, whom Cirigliano is alleged to have wounded fatally Saturday night.

The shooting occurred in Cirigliano's home after Ficaro is alleged to have refused to marry Mary Cirigliano, 18, a sister. The girl is in a maternity hospital.

"Stella" Got His Roll, Betty Tells Judge

"Stella" got the money, Betty Phillips, 20, of 4502 Liberty avenue, testified today in Morals Court when arraigned in connection with the theft of $70 from Julius F. Sharphe, of 2634 Coleman street. Betty was held until "Stella" is found.

Sharphe testified he met Betty and two other girls early Saturday morning in Liberty avenue and while they talked his money disappeared.

Betty said Sharphe was drunk and accosted the girls. "Stella" talked to Sharphe, and took $60—not $70. "Stella" got a new outfit, Betty testified. She doesn't know "Stella's" surname.

Afternoon 2 to 5:30 Evening 7 to 10

We want you to see the Electropure method of Pasteurizing Milk and then watch the endless army of bottles, marching like trained soldiers to the automatic filling and capping machines. We shall show you a new milk Bottling room as complete and perfect in its operation as human hands can make it.

You will see shining automatic freezers turning out 1440 quarts of Ice Cream every ten minutes; filling machines that are almost human in their precision; a complete plant actually distilling Vanilla from the real beans.

The fine fruits, nuts and flavorings we use in Ice Cream will be displayed; every department will be open for your inspection and competent guides will explain everything. We shall also offer you a serving of Rieck's Ice Cream.

WILL YOU COME?

Please remember the hours, 2 to 5:30 in the afternoon and 7 to 10 in the evening. Come to the Forbes Street entrance.

Children unaccompanied by parents can not be admitted.

STATLER, HOTEL KING, DIES OF PNEUMONIA IN N. Y.

WAS BORN IN SOMERSET COUNTY

NEW YORK, April 16—(A. P.)—Ellsworth Milton Statler, who rose from bellboy to ownership of more hotels than any other man in the world, died today of pneumonia at the Hotel Pennsylvania, which he operated.

Mr. Statler, who was 65, was president of the Hotels Statler, Inc., which operated hostelries bearing his name in Buffalo, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, New York and Boston. His first ventures were temporary structures at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in 1901, and at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904.

BORN IN SOMERSET COUNTY

He was born in Somerset county, Pa., in 1863. As a boy of 9, he went to work in the "Glory Hole" of a glass factory in Wheeling, W. Va., where he earned 50 cents a day.

He next obtained a job as bellboy at $6 a month at the McClure House in Wheeling. Statler, who later became known as a pungent, forceful public speaker, was fond of recalling that his first lesson in English came from Tom Duffy, a bartender at the McClure House.

"I seen it wasn't right," Statler said.

"Never say 'I seen,'" Duffy corrected, "Say 'I saw', that's English."

Statler, after successive steps in the hotel business, obtained his first capital from operating billiard rooms. There were anxious days after he opened his first restaurant in Buffalo, but he weathered the storm and paid his creditors in full.

Success with two temporary exposition hotels caused him to embark in the permanent hotel business.

"SERVICE" HIS SLOGAN

"Statler Service", was his business slogan and it meant among other things the then unique plan of a bath with every room. He furnished each class of his employes with a "code" which embodied his personal ideas, and then provided an elaborate system of social service for their advancement and comfort.

He felt that he had made another great advance in the hotel business recently when every room in every Statler hotel was equipped with radio sets which through a central control station provided the choice of two programs. He expressed his pride in this scheme in a radio address and said he believed that the radio went far to do away with the loneliness felt by a hotel guest who was a stranger in the city.

The Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, with 2,200 rooms, was the largest of the hotels he operated.

CANAL SEEN AS RATE REMEDY

That a canal from Pittsburgh to the lakes is the only salvation for the Western Pennsylvania coal industry in the face of repeated defeats suffered by this community in the railroad rate war, was the declaration of William H. Stevenson, chairman of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of Pennsylvania.

Attorneys for Pennsylvania and Ohio coal shippers in Washington today are asking the United States Supreme Court the right to appeal the decision of the Federal District Court of Southern West Virginia restraining the Interstate Commerce Commission from enforcing its order disallowing a reduction of coal rates from the southern fields. If the Supreme Court grants a hearing it is believed that this will act as a stay against the reduction of the southern rate from $1.91 to $1.71 a ton.

"With the restoration of the 25-cent differential to southern shippers despite the Interstate Commerce Commission's order, this rate fight is just where it started 10 years ago," said Mr. Stevenson. "The canal from the Ohio to Lake Erie, declared to be feasible in every respect, can be built in less than five years. It would cost $98,000,000. In the potential saving in freight rates to shippers this cost would be absorbed in a few years.

"Delay in building the canal is directly responsible for all the woe that this district is now suffering from hampered transportation facilities, inequitable freight rates and upheaval in labor. The canal must come if this industrial district is to flourish. Now is the time for the government to build it, when admittedly there is much unemployment and we need the stimulating effect of public improvements. The immense income taxes Pennsylvania is paying might as well go toward work here at home as well as Bowlder Dam and western irrigation schemes."

D. A. R. CONVENE TODAY, HEAR COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP.)—With President Coolidge heading its list of speakers for the first night session, the Daughters of the American Revolution assembled here today for their thirty-seventh Continental Congress amid much uncertainty whether the recent national defense controversy would be injected into the meeting.

Although blacklisting of certain national speakers regarded as undesirable and support of the naval building bill, which led to much publicity on the part of opposition members, were not on the program for discussion, the way was open for precipitating the issue on the floor by any member who desired to attack the stand taken by the national officers.

In a pre-convention statement, which was handed all delegates, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general, clearly defined the society's attitude on the question of defense and said she believed it had been misinterpreted in some quarters as militarism. She and other national officers were of the opinion that the entire membership would give its "undivided support" to such a defense program as she outlined.

Mrs. Brosseau has laid to "a few pacifists within the society who are not active members" the responsibility for the attack on its support of the Navy building bill.

Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie of Boston, executive secretary of the "D. A. R. committee of protest," and reputed author of the pamphlet, "Our Threatened Heritage," which called for the president-general's statement, arrived in Washington last night for the congress. She is neither a delegate nor alternate, but declared her intention to sit in the gallery at the auditorium at the opening. She declined to divulge her plans further.

LEFT TURNS PERMITTED AT BRIDGE DURING TEST

A 30-day test on allowing a left turn from Water street to the Smithfield Street Bridge will be started today, by order of Traffic Inspector Benjamin Marshall. This is a result of the great reduction of traffic on the bridge due to the opening of the Liberty span. A recent traffic count showed that 60 per cent of the traffic formerly carried by the Smithfield Street Bridge is now being carried on the Liberty Bridge.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Fashionably Late Spring Brings Chagrin to Those Back From South Planning Summer Travels

MEMBERS of Pittsburgh society who have returned to the city, and most of them have, from southern resorts must be chagrined to find that temperamental spring this year has ignored the date set by the calendar for its arrival, Spring, so it seems, is too tardy to be even fashionably late, The weather has been so discouragingly reminiscent of winter that most folks find it difficult to plan for their summer travels,

In spite of the weather, though, certain events have so much attraction that plans are being made for them regardless of the chilly, piercing winds of belated winter, Of these events none attracts such widespread interest as the Allegheny Country Club's annual horse show, held every year on the show grounds, Sewickley Heights,

This year, because the show has been so successful in past years, the period of the show has been extended from two to three days! The dates this year will be June 7, 8 and 9,

When I can recall many horse show days which were almost tropical in their overpowering heat I turn Pollyana, and hope that perhaps a late spring will mean pleasantly cool days' for the horse show,

I understand that Helene Hostetter has changed her plans for a New York wedding and will be married on June 25 in Pasadena. Helene is the daughter of Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter, of Pittsburgh and New York, and you will remember that her engagement to John Stevenson Griffith, son of the John R. Griffiths, of Los Angeles, was announced last month in Pasadena, where the Hostetters spend their winters,

Another change in wedding plans has set the time for Frances Burdick's marriage to Charles Cromwell, Jr., of Baltimore, for Thursday, April 26. The date originally chosen for the wedding was April 12, but it was postponed because of Mr. Burdick's illness,

The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock in the home of Frances' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Burdick, in Von Lent place.

The Allegheny Country Club is the scene of another event in the "June" life of Pittsburgh and Sewickley society—the Sewickley dog show. This year it will be held on the horse show grounds of the club on Saturday, June 30. The affair is a benefit for the social service of the Allegheny General Hospital,

Northerners have grown so accustomed to the vagaries of the weather that they carry out their plans despite zero days or visits of tropical heat. So far the April brides have not been very fortunate in having perfect spring days for their weddings. And I imagine they didn't count too much on having them. Perhaps by the end of next week the weather will have improved so that Sara Eleanore Thorp, daughter of the Charles Monroe Thorps, of Edgewood, may have a setting of sunshine for her marriage.

She will wed William Whitla, son of the James P. Whitlas of Sharon, on Saturday, you will recall. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church.

Sara's sister, Jessie Thorp, will be her maid of honor. Her only other atendant will be a flower girl, pretty little Mary Lucretia Garland, daughter of the Chisholm Garlands of Edgewood,

William M. Armstrong of Sharon will be Mr. Whitla's best man, and the ushers will include Charles Monroe Thorp, Jr., brother of the bride, Howard Walker of Akron, Ohio, Frank Hunter of Glenshaw, George B. Moreland, Jr., of Edgewood.

Most society people will remain here until June when another exodus, this time to the north, will begin. Sara Moreland, daughter of Andrew McClain Moreland, expects to be in the city until that time. By the way I have heard that Sara is considering a late June date for her marriage to Harold Trowbridge Levett, son of the George H. Levetts of Elizabeth, N. J.

One man of the Pittsburgh set is still taking an active part in the South—Eben M. Byers. Mr. Byers, by the way, has just purchased the Mousetrap cottage at Aiken, South Carolina, from the Misses Hannah and Hattie Atkinson. Mr. Byers, we've heard, will remodel the cottage.

Despite the charms of Aiken, we wager that the Allegheny Country Club horse show will draw Mr Byers back to Pittsburgh.

New York has many post-Easter visitors from Pittsburgh. Mrs. Ralph E. Clemson and Elizabeth Christie are among those spending the week end in Gotham. They stopped at the Berkshire Hotel.

Mrs. James B. Laughlin has been in New York, too. Stopping at the Barclay in New York have been Mrs. James C. Burt of Castleman street and Mrs. Wilbur Shenk of Ellsworth avenue.

Another society woman who will return home this week is Mrs. James W. Arrott, Jr., of Sewickley, who is expected to return in a day or two from Clifton Springs, N. Y.

Miss Betty Boyer Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Taylor, of Lytton avenue, has chosen Tuesday May 22, as the date for her marriage to J. F. Pigman, of New Haven, Conn., formerly of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. Margaret A. Pigman, of Mt. Pleasant.

Miss Ann Jessie Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Wise, of Jackson street, East End, has returned to St. Joseph's Academy, Seton Hill, after the Easter vacation.

The marriage of Miss Freida E. Bruening, daughter of Mrs. Emma M. Bruening, of Ridgeville street, and Albert Wallace Smith, of San Francisco, was solemnized Saturday at noon in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Malcolm Kneeland, in Homewood avenue, by the Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be home in San Francisco after a western trip.

Miss Isabel Mackey Watson, of North Dithridge street, entertained with a bridge party Saturday in honor of Miss Annetta Rebecca Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Dunbar, of Carnegie, whose marriage to William Rea Grove, of Carnegie, will be solemnized in June. Miss Dunbar was graduated from the Pennsylvania College for Women last year.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Katharine Wiley Morrow, of Lamar avenue, Wilkinsburg, formerly of Washington, Pa., and Herbert Patterson, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized Tuesday morning in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association by the Rev. Dr. F. R. Elder, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson are motoring in the East and after May 1 will be at home in North avenue, Wilkinsburg The bride is a graduate of the Washington Seminary and Mr. Patterson was graduated from Westminster College and the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Mildred Schmitt, daughter of Mrs. P. Schmitt, of Marys avenue, Sharpsburg, has chosen June 27 as the date for her marriage to Charles Lindow, of the North Side. The ceremony will be performed in St. Mary's Church, Sharpsburg. Miss Kathryn Killmyer will be maid of honor and Miss Grace Weisser, bridesmaid.

The County Board, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will hold a card party Friday night in Eagles' Hall, Third avenue. Bridge, "500," euchre and old maid will be played.

The B. R. B. Townsends of Sewickley Heights will return early this week from Ormond Beach, Fla., where they spent the winter.

Thompson, Uniontown banker, and once the greatest individual owner of coal lands until his sensational $75,000,000 crash a few years ago, faces prison as the result of a decision handed down today in Philadelphia by the Supreme Court. The courts of Fayette county were upheld in ordering Thompson to return about $150,000 which he was accused of appropriating from the estate of Emma Messmore of which he was executor.

On the failure of the banker to restore these funds, he was cited in contempt of court and on September 12, last, an attachment was issued for him, committing him to jail. He appealed from this order.

GERMAN TOURIST HANGS SELF ON TRAIN HERE

SON OF WEALTHY MERCHANT SUICIDE

As a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train was en route from Chicago to Pittsburgh yesterday, Martin Grunbaum, 23, son of a wealthy merchant of Cologne-Braunsfeld, Germany, hanged himself with a belt in one of its washrooms. His body was found by a porter as the train was passing through Evans City, Butler county.

Letters and papers found in the man's baggage revealed that he was in this country to study bookkeeping and organization methods of American department stores. He had been traveling with another German named Johannes Schaub.

Schaub was not with Grunbaum on the train and local authorities are making an effort to communicate with him in an effort to throw light of the suicide. That the motive was not lack of funds was indicated by the fact that $7,240 in travelers' checks besides cash in American and German currency were found in Grunbaum's baggage when it and the body was removed to the morgue.

FIRE BURNS OUT RIVER BOAT

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 16.—(AP.)—The steamer C. F. Colbert, owned by the National Transportation Company of Brownsville, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday while tied up in the Monongahela River at Gray's Landing for repairs. The damage was estimated at $15,000 to $20,000.

The fire started in the kitchen, and an overheated stove was advanced as a possible cause. It was the fourth time in a month that the craft had taken fire. In the three previous instances little damage was done.

The Masontown fire department prevented destruction of the boat.

Harold Bauer, pianist; Anna Case, former Metropolitan soprano, and Edwin Grasse, violinist, are among the artists to be presented.

The program includes a "listening-in" dinner party given by the Lions to the blind in every community in which the Lions are organized. W. A. Royston, Jr., past president of the Lions Club of Pittsburgh, and chairman of the Lions international committee on welfare of the blind, is general chairman for the broadcast.

In this city the blind will be guests of the local Lyons at Syria Mosque from 9 until 10 o'clock. The program for the hour from 9 until 10 o'clock will be arranged separately from the broadcasting program.

TWO LANCASTER PAPERS MERGE

LANCASTER, Pa., April 16.—(AP.)—The Intelligencer, an afternoon paper, established in 1794 and reputed to be the oldest Democratic daily in the United States, became a morning newspaper today, having been merged with the News-Journal, a morning sheet. The consolidated papers will be known as the Intelligencer-Journal.

Austin E. McCollough, who established the Journal on July 4, 1913, and who had been managing editor of the Intelligencer since 1916, becomes editor of the Intelligencer-Journal.

This is not the first consolidation of the two papers, for on September 24, 1839, they were combined and printed under the name Intelligencer-Journal for a number of years.

The Intelligencer-Journal will be the only morning paper in Lancaster county.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

Young Fairbanks Returning To Pictures After Several Ventures in Stage Plays

By MILDRED FILLMORE

IN THE latest news of what's what and who's who from the California movie studios, we find the name of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. This youthful actor, who, as you all know, is a son of the screen's best porch climber, has returned to pictures after a more or less indifferent fling in the spoken drama. He recently appeared in stage productions of "Young Woodley" and "Saturday's Children" on the West Coast.

Young Doug's newest film venture is in Columbia's "Modern Mothers." In it he plays a featured juvenile lead opposite Barbara Kent. We don't know much about the production except that it presents a drama of a famous actress, whose publicity-made past comes up to haunt her future.

Fans may doubt if Mr. Fairbanks, Jr., ever will climb to the movie heights scaled by his papa. But one never can tell. And the boy has ambition. He says: "I don't want to be a blonde leading man with a aquiline nose and shiny white teeth all my life."

Universal plans to start production on picturizing Ziegfeld's "Show Boat" in May. In this connection word comes from Los Angeles that, due to a shortage of Negro talent there, it is probable that the film company will negotiate for some of the original members of the "Show Boat" cast.

Plans also are under way at the Universal Studios, I am informed, to make a series of two-reel comedies based on stories by Octavius Roy Cohen. These pictures will have all-Negro casts.

Universal is the company that spent two years or more filming "Uncle Tom's Cabin," yet to be released here. And it seems that so much extra footage was left over, after Uncle Tom was put together, that the producers figure on splicing together an extra six-reel subject from the surplus.

Anita Stewart, who has been casting a flirtatious eye toward vaudeville, has postponed any adventuring in that direction long enough to step before the cameras in "The Way of the strong." This is another Columbia effort. Gaston Glass and Huntley Gordon are the boys who play the "strong."

Do you want to know who is the youngest star in Hollywood? Well, chalk up another honor for the feminine contingent—for the star is Mary Mac McKeen, sister of Lawrence McKeen. She is 14 months old. All this may be Greek to you until you learn Lawrence is no other than the screen baby, Snookums. He was 15 months old when he made his picture debut. And that, it seems to me, was several years ago.

James Cruze and the American film industry has no monopoly on covered wagons. Listen to this: "The Covered Wagon" is the name of a new Soviet film just released in Leningrad. It has Russian Asia as its locale.

W. C. Fields, comedian, has completed his contract with Paramount and is in New York, where he expects to join a summer revue. —Karl Dane fractured his left shoulder when he fell from a bicycle while appearing before the M-G-M cameras.—Announcement has been made that Ramon Novarro will do a sequel to "The Midshipman," to be titled "The Ensign."

STATE COLLEGE PLAY TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Seventy-five college boys from Penn State will appear this evening in Syria Mosque in the play, "Honestly Yours," which was written by the members of the College Drama Society and is a satire on modern society. A number of Pittsburgh boys appear in this play. Among them are Fred Close, R. G. Kennedy, Sherwood Smith and others.

Saturday was the birthday of Anne Forrest, leading woman of the George Sharp Players, in the Pitt. In honor of the occasion the young actress was made the center of a little celebration on the stage of the theater after the evening show, participated in by members of the company and some from the audience. There were gifts for Miss Anne and festivities, including brief speeches.

"A Night in Spain," a New York Winter Garden revue, begins a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday. In this revue are the troupes of dancers known as the Gertrude Hoffman Girls, the New York Winter Garden Beauty Brigade and a group of Spanish dancers. The cast includes Ted Healy, Aileen Stanley, Geneva McCormick, Cortez and Peggy and others.

This afternoon the aviation photoplay, "Wings," opens its second week in the Nixon. Clara Bow, Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen are featured in "Wings." Others in the cast are Jobyna Ralston, El Brendel, Gary Cooper, Arlette Marchal, Richard Tucker and Henry B. Walthal.

In the Pitt tonight, opening the second week of the engagement, the George Sharp Players will appear in "The Clutching Claw," a mystery melodrama, with Ralph Morgan and Ann Harding in the leading roles.

The featured attraction on the stage of the Davis this week is the ballroom dancing of Moss and Fontana. On the screen is Richard Arlen in "Under the Tonto Rim."

In the Alvin next Monday night, April 23, Walter Hampden will celebrate the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth by presenting the masterpiece of the Bard of Avon, "Hamlet," with the same cast and production that characterized its revival in Mr. Hampden's own theater, New York, last season.

In addition to "Hamlet," which Mr. Hampden will present on Monday night only, he will also appear in the romantic comedy, "Caponsacchi," on Tuesday night, Wednesday matinee and night and Thursday night, and on Friday night and Saturday matinee and night in Ibsen's satirical comedy, "An Enemy of the People."

German Fliers In News Reel Of M-G-M

Motion pictures of the German fliers, Captain Herman Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld, taken at Baldonnel Field in Dublin, are being shown by M-G-M News in leading theaters. The pictures show, among other things, the courageous German fliers in the Bremen on a test hop made at Baldonnel just before the actual take-off for Mitchel Field, New York. They arrived in New York while the fate of the fliers was still in doubt. The pictures show many interesting scenes of the odd looking aircraft which brought the fliers within striking distance of their goal.

Another feature in the current issue of M-G-M News shows, for the first time, the vast military power that Soviet Russia has welded together in the ten years of its existence. This is the first time that the Soviet has permitted motion pictures of its army to be made.

DR. MACARTNEY ENDS 'FOUNDATION' SERIES

A series of 17 sermons on "Foundation Facts of the Christian Faith" was completed yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. "The triumph must come through a great and special act of God Himself," Dr. Macartney said in attacking the belief that good can grow in the world by evolution without growth of evil.

COURT RULES OUT SINCLAIR 'ALIBI'

By GEORGE E. DURNO.
International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The defense in the criminal conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair suffered a severe set back at the opening of its case today when Justice Jennings Bailey refused to admit in evidence what had been counted on as the major alibi for the leasing of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

Bailey sided with Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts in ruling that testimony relative to the danger of drainage of the dome through wells in the adjoining Salt Creek field was irrelevant to the case. The defense had expected to tell the jury that fear of such drainage and not a $233,000 bribe had impelled former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall to lease the dome to Sinclair.

Two geologists brought to Washington by the defense left the witness stand without having been permitted to say a word about drainage.

George Hoover, chief defense counsel, admittedly was taken back at the ruling, but he said he hoped to get the evidence in another way.

Previously, the government had closed its case after developing a final $25,000 payment Sinclair made to Fall in 1923, a year after the Teapot Dome lease, making the total of money that passed between the two men $294,100.

HOLDUP VICTIM LOSES WATCH 100 YEARS OLD

A watch which had been in the family 100 years was stolen from E. J. Stein, 48, steel-worker of Whitaker, when robbers hit him on the head with a piece of gas pipe early today. They took $44 from him also. The holdup occurred at Fifth avenue and McClure street, Homestead.

Pittsburgh Boy's Part in Play Notable

When Eugene O'Neill's prodigious new play, "Lazarus Laughed," had its first production at Pasadena, Cal., last Monday, a Pittsburgh boy, Irving Pichel, created the principal role—that of Lazarus. The play deals with the miracle of the raising of Lazarus from the dead, and begins immediately after Jesus has departed. "There is no death" appears to be the leit-motif of the action. When the Roman emperor has Lazarus brought to Rome, in order to learn the secret of immortality from him, he has Lazarus burned for failing to reveal the secret. There are many tremendous mob scenes and large choruses, requiring stage management of the first order. But of the 20 speaking parts in the cast, Irving Pichel's stands out pre-eminently. It requires remarkable vocal powers, for at one point he has to laugh for about four minutes.

The Greatest Adventure Story of Modern Times

Trading Guns to Cannibals for West Coast Ivory

The Fine Points of Barter With Wild Men, Elephants And Gorillas All About

What Has Gone Before

Writing at the age of 73 in a Johannesburg lodging house, Alfred Aloysius Horn recalls his adventures when, as a boy of 18, he left St. Edward's College, Liverpool, and sailed for West Africa, representing Hatton & Cookson, traders in ivory and rubber. His ship, the Angola, anchors at the town of Bonney, on the Bonney River, one of the mouths of the Niger. The place is known as White Man's Grave because of the fever. It is also the home of the terrifying native secret society called Egbo.

The Song of Muni River

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN.
Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER II.

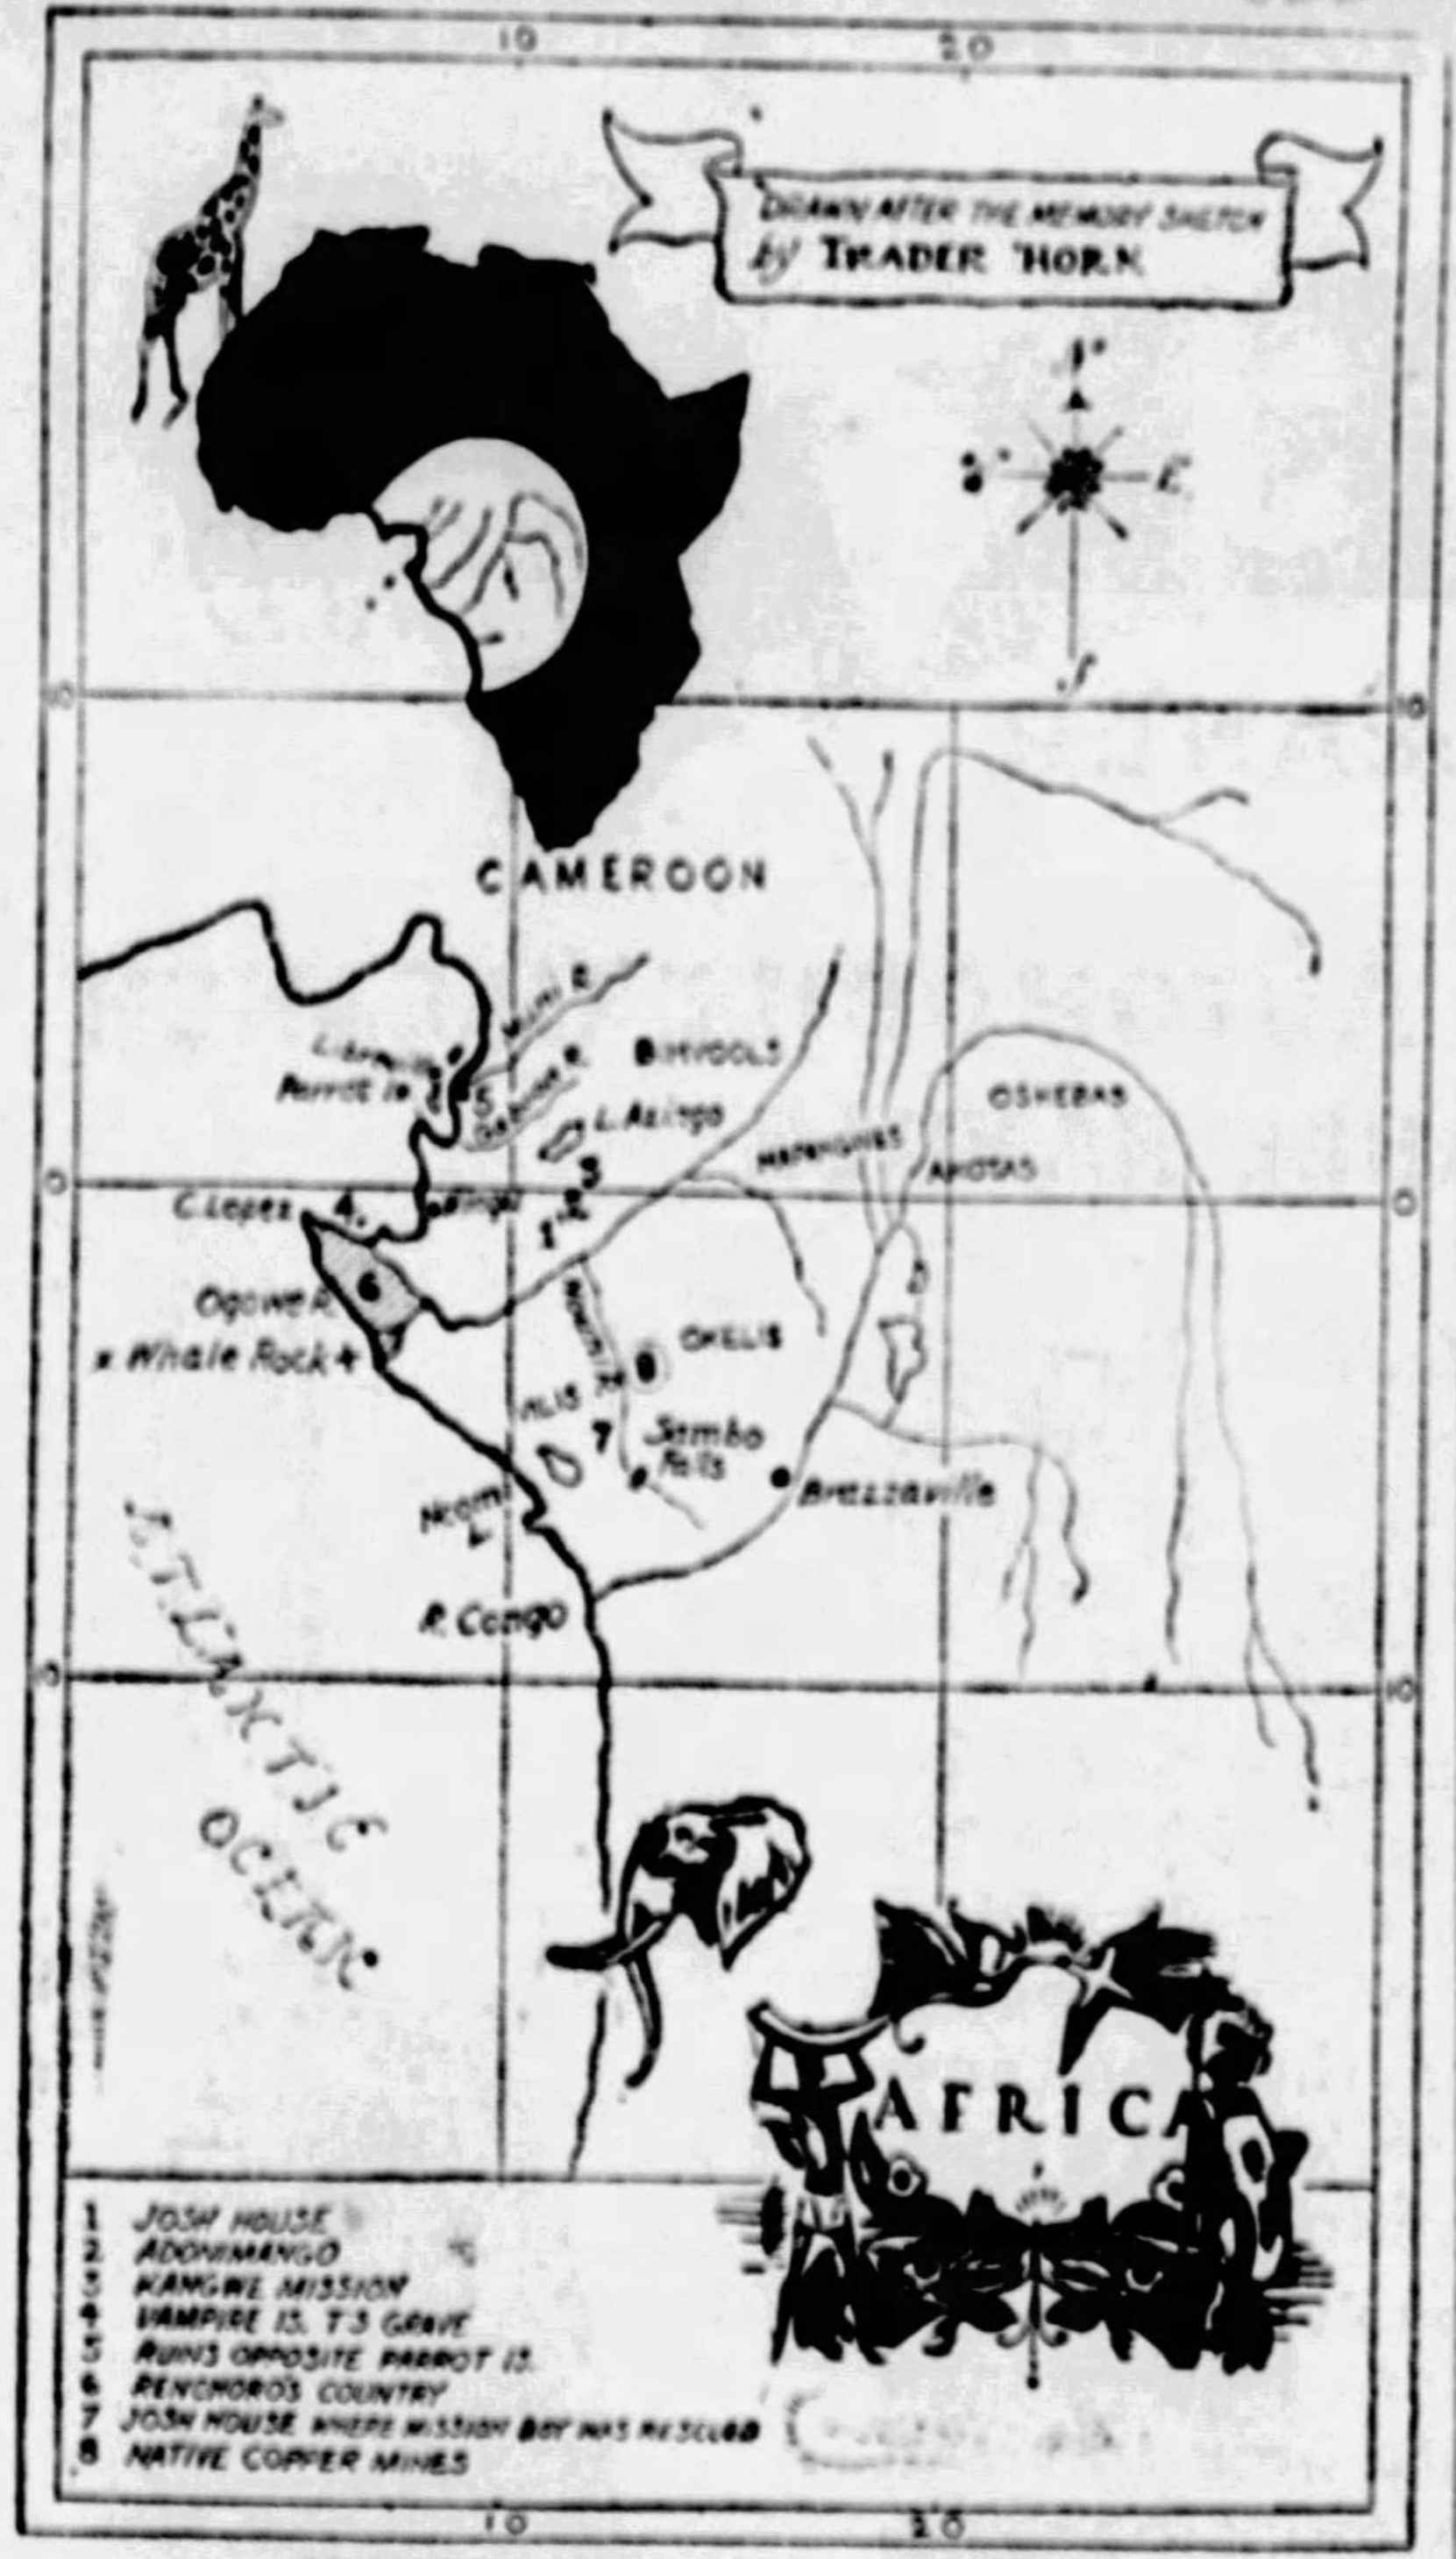
I WAS not sorry when we steamed away from Bonney. The smell of palm oil which we had taken on board added to the discomfort produced by the heat and vapors which were always thicker before sunset, whilst midges, mosquitoes and various winged insects flew over us, bound for their roosing places, keeping up a continuous screeching. Once well away, we had a view of the Old Calabar Coast and soon left behind us our winged tormentors.

We reached the main depot of our firm at Elobey, four or five miles north of the equator. Here we took on a large consignment of ivory, ball rubber, as well as flake, some palm oil, also ebony, dyewood, etc. Our agent's name was Mr. Carlisle, a good-hearted man, a gentleman of the first water.

He held away from Batenga on the Cameroons coast as far as Fernandes Vaz. He soon told me that as I was the youngest trader on the coast he meant to take special care of me, and that my chances of success in life were far better than I imagined and he would give me every opportunity of forging ahead.

The Angola left after two days' stay with a very large and valuable cargo. One of the company's steamboats, the S. S. Batenga, arrived as the S. S. Angola left, just in time to signal good luck. A cargo consisting of gunpowder, guns in cases, Manchester prints, etc., in bales; also hardware, boots, clothing and salt, etc., was soon put on board, and after three hearty cheers had been given by the crew we left Elobey and were soon anchored off the beach of one of the chief centers of the West Coast trade.

The Trader's Map



WHITE GODDESS' REALM

A map of the portion of darkest Africa showing the location of the Josh House, where the White Goddess was discovered by Trader Horn—and other points of interest in the cannibal country where the famous author traded for ivory and rubber over half a century ago.

Among Cannibals

The post was in charge of Mr. Jobay. The stores and buildings were large whilst the dwelling portion was a fine, well-verandahed building, beautifully situated and only 200 yards from a fine sandy beach. The place was fronted by a large garden and was shaded by giant palms and cocoanut trees. As I was sent to Gaboon to make a special study of the ivory and rubber trade I was put in charge of the ivory and India rubber store and had for my assistant Ritigu, chief of that portion of Gaboon city. He was an old experienced trader and soon taught me how to buy ivory. Most of the natives who came in to sell ivory were Mpangwes, cannibals all, and traveled long distances.

Most of them were tall, muscular fellows, used to hardships and dangers. All had file-sharpened teeth, were marked on their faces or necks with some distinguishing marks. They were all well armed with guns, spears and large native-made daggers. Many of them wore scars on their bodies of old wounds, wore loin covers of skins and were as wild and picturesque a lot of savages as you could possibly find anywhere.

A skin pouch was carried filled with all kinds of smoked meat, including dried smoked rats, which they were very fond of. Lad-like I was curious to know what they carried for food and they were not choicy. Everything they said was "bechit," their name for food; monkeys of various kinds were delicacies.

Guns for Ivory

They also carried a wild bean which they chewed in the same manner as a white man does tobacco. I tried some of it and found it to be first class; it reddens the lips and mouth and they claim that a few of these beans are sufficient to stave off hunger for several days. Each lot as they came in took up separate camping grounds, all old feuds and bad feelings were put on one side whilst selling their ivory.

He Acts

EDGAR SADD

When the Penn State Thespians present "Honestly Yours" at Syria Mosque tonight one of the principal roles will be enacted by Edgar Sadd, 1000 Davis avenue, North Side.

Each tusk was weighed, generally the large ones, running 60 to 70 pounds, were the most difficult to buy. Each tusk represented so many flint-locked guns and so much gunpowder and so many bags of salt. After the quantity of these had been agreed upon, so many were roomed (native term) or exchanged for prints and callcoes and again a bag of salt would be exchanged for brass and copper rods, lead bars, spiral wire plates, brass neptunes, trade boxes, knives, razors, files, various kinds of bowls and other articles always kept in stock.

The art of trading was to get the natives to exchange cheap articles for dear ones so that it kept one busy talking and bartering sometimes for an hour or more before the prices of the largest ivories were settled on. The lesser ones were easily bought whilst large strings of India rubber changed hands very quietly. Native-made daggers, spears, a large variety of leopard and monkey skins were a part of their trading stock.

Elephants and Gorillas

These hunters often brought in live animals—monkeys, chimpanzees and once in a while a young gorilla, likewise baby elephants. These African elephants are more trouble than they are worth, as it is impossible to tame them, whilst the young gorillas died of stomach troubles. They are reared on human milk and myondo, a species of wild shalotte or onion they cannot live without, so the natives said.

In fact, whilst hunting I found that where you find gorilla colonies you will always find myondo patches. These so-called men monkeys always like to live in valleys, making their homes where you find the mammoth water vines. These vines are full of delicious cool water and it is really the greatest boon to travelers whilst marching through the forests. I have often seen them over 12 inches thick and full of water, always cool.

The cedika any many kinds of fine large nuts he is also fond of. You will never be troubled by dysentery whilst using the water found in these vines, and the gorilla being subject to stomach troubles, is taught by nature to use it. The chimpanzee is also found in these glades and is said to breed with the gorilla, producing a monkey called a colocambo. In all my travels I never saw a colocambo, although I offered a good reward for a live or dead one. So I put this down to the imagination of some dopey hunter.

(At this point Trader Horn stops his written narrative to make some verbal observations to Mrs. Lewis as interesting as the account of his adventures.)

An "Easy" Writer

"How do you like it, ma'am? I shall sure get into my stride before long. It's not the first time I've turned a hand to a job of writing. I used to be able to toss off a good panegyric in my day. When old Matthew W—— died they came to me for it. Nothing but a brewer, but a man of heart in spite of it. It came easy, that's what it was. Sound of the soil on the coffin tapping on the ear—the straining of the cords like the pulling of heart-strings et cetera and so forth. Easy stuff to do with a little lapse of the imagination. Oh, aye.

Visits

QUEEN SOURIYA

The First Lady of Afghanistan, Queen Souriya, with her husband, King Amanullah, made friends for her territory when, during a visit to London, she dropped in with a word of cheer for patients at the great Ormonde Street Hospital. She showed a preference for this day-old baby.

"Lullabies are easy too with a bit of practice, although not so useful as topical. An eye for topical will earn many a drink you'd 'a' had to go dry for. We earned quite a nice little sum out of Tutankhamen when he was in the limelight. Feller I know who had a pretty sympathy with the guitar went partners with me. I wove out the poetry and we both managed a bit of a dance.

"A knowledge of hornpipe'll come in for most occasions. Yes, ma'am. It's in the nature of this life that no portion of one's makeup is ever waste product. I'm not saying there was much college intelligence required in that little turn—words or dance. But if you're a student of humanity it'll be abundantly clear that intellect displayed in the Golden City is never likely to earn a bed. TWENTY INJURED

A mystery blast, killing 40 and injuring 20 in a dance hall at West Plains, Mo., is laid by the district attorney conducting an investigation to suicide or revenge. He suspects J. M. Wiser, 47, who rented a garage below the dance hall and who was seen in his garage just before the blast. Wiser, killed in the explosion, was a known opponent of dancing.

SEEK BODIES

Searchers continue to remove debris in search of more bodies, long after the blast. The photo to the left shows the ruins of the blasted building, while above is a scene from across the street, showing debris blown over the roadway by the force of the explosion. Damage is estimated at $150,000. The explosive used has not yet been determined by investigators.

STUDENTS STRIKE IN PROTEST

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 16.—Half of the 300 students of St. Clairsville High School were on "strike" for two hours today following the sudden resignation of Principal James H. Earps.

Carrying banners, "We Want Justice," and "We Want Earps," the students paraded the streets and massed in front of the Belmont county courthouse. They finally were induced to return to their classes by assurance by the school board that Principal Earps would be given a public hearing of charges said to have resulted in his resigning.

An effort was made by George Thornburg, president of the school board, to get in touch with Earps, who was said to have departed for Pittsburgh. He had been principal here for a year, coming here from Granville, O.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

ON THE outside of a small booklet is the title: "What I Know About Women," by Sir James Erwin. It comes in the mail from a reader. With some palpitation we opened the booklet to see what this new kind of Columbus had to offer. It develops it is a cruel joke. There are 100 pages in the booklet and there is not a word on any of them. Evidently, Sir James, after much exploring and analyzing came to the same conclusion that most men, including professional jokesters and paragraphers, have reached. In a word, that they know nothing about this particular subject.

NOTHIN' IN IT!

NEVERTHELESS, the volume at hand is helpful. One may use it as a memorandum of observations on the peculiarities of the deadlier species. For instance, on the first blank we intend trying to write an analysis of why so many women go to bridge parties in afternoons when they could accomplish nearly the same result by merely staying at home and using the telephone.

YOU may say that this would prevent bridge playing, but it is a deep-seated opinion here that all the bridge that goes on at afternoon parties for the gals could be placed in a thimble purchased by an undersized woman. This is not to be taken as criticism of our fair friends. If they get a kick out of sitting around tables in groups of fours, pretending to be handling the well-known pasteboards, when actually through their busy minds are popping countless questions and answers, that certainly is their affair.

FOR the women, quite easily, might counter with a straight right and suggest that gabbing at a bridge table is not nearly so silly as leaning against a bar or a buffet or a kitchen-sink by a group of men, who, when properly oiled, tell just how good they are and then get generous by telling the patient listener how good the listener is, winding up with "Sweet Adeline."

YOU'ER THE BEST... HIC GUY I KNOW! HIC
LETS SING SWEET ADELINE!

ON ANOTHER page there should also be something said about the way the young girls are getting themselves up to look like boys. "No," said a mystified aunt to a niece she hadn't seen in years, "I didn't know you at all. However, I felt certain you were a girl because you look so much like a boy." At which the young lady crossed knees and then indulged in that little joke of pulling down the skirt, a gesture somehow, which causes the skirt to go just a wee bit higher. Most likely there was some elastic in the hem or perhaps it owned tha contrivance peculiar to window blinds.

ON page three,, however, there should be a word or two about St. Joan, whose name can be brandished in the face of any man who insists that the male of the species is the real thing.

And to furnish contrast on a few pages further on there should be a couple of pages about Catherine of Russia, Helen of Troy, who started fighting no end, and of course, Cleopatra, forerunner, even, of Theda Bara.

ON ONE of the concluding pages should be a lengthy discussion of girls as daughters. Men who have only sons see only boys, forgetting that the little boys who pull the dog's tail, and break up the furniture with their hatchets, have sisters who polish the same furniture to help out a mother, and who cry when the dog is punished for something it should be punished for, the further details of which we shall not go into here.

JERRY The Epic of a Girl Who Had to Wait · by Elenore MEHERIN

Stephanie Finds Old Clippings From Newspapers Asking for Her Whereabouts

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Jerry King, good looking, charming and nineteen, falls in love with Saxon Rhodes, a young architect. Marza, her fascinating mother, warns her that idealists like Saxon make poor husbands. When he goes abroad to study, Jerry promises to wait for him. Jerry agrees to wait three years longer. She wonders whether Saxon loves her as completely as she loves him. Saxon's attention to Ora Pringle gives Jerry a pang of jealousy. They attend a week end party where things start to happen. She decides to give Saxon up. She discovers that Marza has another daughter of whose existence her husband had ben ignorant. Stephanie, Marza's daughter who was very ill, recovers and they go back home and Jerry finds life one trial after another with Saxon. Mary Eunice is to back Saxon to win in a contest, Jerry is jealous. Saxon tells Jerry he is paying his own way and once more she believes in him. Stephanie's operation is a success and the doctor is sure that she will walk.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"JERRY—I wish I knew what to do about it. What would you?"

The notice was a clipping from the personal column of a [illegible] it was yellowed with age. Across the top in [illegible] was dated: September 14, 1911.

[illegible] ick and almost choking breath Jerry read:

"Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Stephanie Marsh, 5-year-old daughter of Stephen Marsh, Jr., please communicate with Stephen Marsh, First National Bank Building, New York. Liberal reward."

"And this one, Jerry, a month later."

"Will Marza, the mother of Stephanie Marsh, please communicate with Stephen Marsh, Sr.? She will learn facts of the greatest importance to herself and her child."

"Jerry—they ran that in the Sunday papers for months."

Jerry closed her eyes imagining the terror of discovery Marza must have suffered. Her friends may have seen that notice. They may have twitted her.

"She never gave any answer, Stephanie?"

"No! She was in mortal fear they would find me and take me. She even feared they would kidnap me. I suppose you don't remember that she went to Chicago and stayed for months when that notice was running? It was just after Stephen was killed. She came and lived at the convent with me."

"How did they ever learn of you? And of her?"

"Marza isn't sure. But my father had a set of these medallions. My name and the date of my birth were written on the back of mine. And some love message on the back of hers. That's how they got her first name. It's all they seem to know. Marza thinks that Stephen left these medallions with some of her letters in a safe deposit box when he came West for that last visit. He may have left some notice of my existence . . . may have made some will asking that I be cared for in case Marza also died. I don't know. Anyway—they found out.

"Here—look—this is the best of them! It's only three years back. And they're right near us!

"You see, they knew Stephen came to California. And perhaps some of Marza's letters were dated from here. Anyway, they seem to have looked mostly in the West."

The notice read:

"Will Stephanie Marsh, daughter of Marza and Stephen Marsh Junior, please communicate with Stephen Marsh Senior, Van Orden building, Los Angeles? She will learn facts immensely to her advantage.

"Any person knowing the whereabouts of Stephanie Marsh and furnishing correct information will be liberally recompensed."

"Jerry—think what it MIGHT mean! Shall I answer? Shall we go traveling down there and collect the million!"

CHAPTER LII.

THE two girls faced each other and laughed: "We could surely use that million, Jerry!"

"Yes, if he has it and would like to give it to you."

"Why else should they be advertising for me? Surely not in mere idle curiosity. Of course, they've an estate and want it to come to the rightful heir."

"But he may have willed it off in these three years. Or your grandmother may have died and he, most likely, has married the housekeeper—a way old men have. What chance have you with her five cross-eyed brats?"

"You're against him, then? And you'd let the whole thing lie as it has for 14½ years?"

"At 19 one is usually seeking ways to ditch the family. It might prove very risky acquiring one. You don't know what kind of a domineering old tyrant he may be. Perhaps he has gout or delirium tremens and you'd be kept busy putting cold cloths on his head of nights. A son isn't always proof of his father.

"Or he may be some peculiar crank person egotistical enough to be curious about his progeny. He may be just grubbing along, a conceited, fat-headed ole bore wondering what kind of seed he planted and what sort of weed or flower grew. You don't want him minus the million, do you?"

"I should say not. One poor relative to a family is enough."

"On the other hand," she proceeded airily, determined to have the kind of grandfather she fancied, "he's probably very distinguished-looking—a gallant and cultured gentleman with a gold-headed cane and a flower on his coat. He's most likely invested heaps of money in oil.

"People who move to Los Angeles late in life do. He may own half of Signal Hill and all I need is to drop a postal card and he'll come flying up here in a magnificent French car. Gosh—he could probably make me a star in the movies should I desire to twinkle!"

Stephanie turned with a soft, bubbling laugh: "Jerry, I'm sure he has a huge heart full of kindness—and a huge pocket full of coin. He must have been wild to find me. He probably thought of Stephen's child left alone in the world; farmed out like the kids in 'Sparrows!' Maybe he even fancied me starved and abused. And he didn't want that. Such a pretty little thing! Cute picture, isn't it?

"I could drop him a vague line, signing your name and saying that I once knew a girl in a convent named Stephanie Marsh, then I'd sound him out and perhaps even look him over before accepting him."

"Better than that," said Jerry, "we could take a flying trip to Los Angeles; get on his trail; find out if he has the necessary coin and a giving heart. Then speak!"

"Something tells me we should do it, Jerry!"

"Something often tells a person wrong. It's your own wish, Stephanie, and not any prophetic instinct that gives you those whispers."

"Then you wouldn't? You'd pass the whole thing up?"

"Well, we're all right, the three of us. And we'll get by and have gay scarlet times. We always have. If Marza hid you for 14 years, Stephanie, SOMETHING as reliable as your SOMETHING must have told her to. It worked out."

Said Stephanie, holding the yellowed clippings before her: "But it's vastly haunting having this mysterious relative hovering about. As good as the ghost of your first ancestor. Could you resist peeking at him if you had the chance? I'd like to find out! I want to find out!"

"Then you wait till you get on your feet again and we'll flit in on the gay old boy together! Bowl him over for fair!"

"In three weeks or four."

"Not that soon."

"In THREE weeks, I'm on my feet. And don't forget it. You'll teach me all the ropes, ole thing? I've seventeen dozen questions to ask of this and that. Mostly of men and love. You know all that's to be known of such, don't you?"

Those brown silky brows and the short upper lip quirking so merrily. Stephanie looked childlike; looked provocative and thrillingly sweet. She seized on Jerry's heart.

Nineteen with all the dream before her! Like she was that spring-time four years back. How would it go for Stephanie?

Jerry leaving the hospital an hour later met the doctor.

"You must encourage your cousin to be patient."

"Is she not soon to walk?"

They take it up

It's a grand old baking Heinz Beans get. Baking in ovens to make them mealy and tender. Baking in ovens to make them just right to take up the good tomato sauce that is poured over them—and goes through and through every bean. Wonderful tomato sauce made of whole fresh tomatoes.

Then there's a bit of choice pork in every can for still more flavor. Ask your grocer about these flavorous beans—the beans labeled "Oven-Baked" because they are.

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-NEIGH-and-WHINny at this point, no less! I mean I'm ACtually so MAD I could SNIFfle SOUP because, my dear, this odd soul ARab SIMply SLAYS me the way he inSISTS on arRAYing himself, sort of, in all kinds of TERribly unbeCOMing CLOTHES, my dear, because I mean he has such LOUD TASTE, sort of, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, I was HONestly reDUCED to a PURple PULP when I enCOUNtered the little PIPsqueak toDAY, my dear, because I mean he was WEARing a DERby, of ALL things, my dear! I mean you KNOW he WOULD—he's just the TYPE! But, GOSH, my dear, he looks SIMply FOUL in a DERby, my dear, because he has such a sort of FLAT FACE, do you know what I mean? Because I mean unless you're sort of the terribly aristoCRATic type like the PRINCE of WALES or something you simply CAN'T don a DERby without looking like NOTHing HUman, my dear, because I mean ARab, f'r instance, has a FACE like a FRYing pan or something and the ONly really beCOMing hat he can WEAR, my dear, is something that has a LARGE-sized BRIM to sort of pull DOWN over his MUG—can you BEAR it, my dear? But he inSISTS on WEARing this odd chaPEAU, my dear, because when it's not on his BEAN he says he can USE it, sort of, to MUTE his SAXophone, which I think is HONestly the MOST perVERted IDEA in the WORLD, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Lillian Analyzes Dicky Graham's Newly Formed Interest in Eleanor Lincoln

"THIS isn't a time for delicate womanly shyness," Lillian reminded me as my voice faltered and died. "But never mind. I can finish your sentence as well as you could have done. 'And to complicate matters'—Dicky is behaving like a coyotte with the croup because of Phil Veritzen."

I opened my lips for a half-hearted abashed protest, but she gave me no opportunity for speech.

"For my part I'm glad he is," she said, "although he has a colossal crust to get sore at anything you may choose to do. He certainly handed you the freedom of the city, also the keys when he fell for that stunt of Grace Draper's and the poisoned drink she tried to slip him, pretending that you were the person responsible. I know, dear," her voice softening as I threw out my hand with a passionate protesting gesture, "it's pretty raw to recall that miserable business to you, but I know you as well as if I'd strung all your two hundred odd bones together. That Puritan conscience of yours is beginning to get hungry, and you're going to try to feed it if somebody doesn't hobble you. And you can bet your last centime on the fact that your old side kick is ready with the hobble rope."

She stopped, drew a long breath and grinned at me. But I knew that there was deadly seriousness behind her smile.

"The Dicky-bird hasn't served out half his term yet, and he isn't earning any parole for good behavior, either," she continued. "If I don't miss my guess, and I've known him man and boy for 20 years, he's just starting on one of his artistic admiration sprees with Eleanor Lincoln as the subject of his sympathetic souse."

I winced, because she had voiced a conviction of my own—one which was causing me more uneasiness than I had supposed my bruised sensibilities were capable of feeling.

"For my part," she went on, "I'm tickled pink and all the other colors that he's doubling for the Scriptural behemoth whenever he thinks of Philip Veritzen. Let him keep right on with that apochryphal stunt. It will do him a world of good. And if you dare to weaken, I'll never speak to you again, so help me Allah and Mohammed his prophet!"

I laughed weakly at her vehemence, and my protest was equally ineffective.

"But, Lillian, you surely do not mean that you think I ought to encourage Mr. Veritzen in—"

"Who's talking about encouraging him?" she said with a malicious grin. "You won't need to do any encouraging. All I'm asking you to do is to sit pretty and not heave too many paving stones at dear old Phil. You may have to bounce an occasional brickbat off his bean if he gets too attentive, but do it judiciously, dearie, give him a sweet smile at the same time you limber up your throwing muscles."

She rose from her seat and put an encouraging hand upon my shoulder.

"Buck up, old dear," she said. "I never steered you wrong yet, did I?"

"Indeed, no," I returned fervently and with truth.

"Well, then, just go along on the supposition that I haven't suddenly become affected with senility. I tell you there's only one way to deal with the Dicky-bird and that's to make him fully realize the time-worn saw about sauce for the goose and for the gander."

Do You Know What a Woman of 30 Should Weigh?

It all depends on her height, of course.

If she is 5 feet 7 inches in height she should weigh, according to the best authorities, 142 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 5 inches her normal weight is 134 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 3 inches she should weight 127 pounds.

It's dangerous to be always striving to grow thin—the Adirondack Mountains and health resorts everywhere are filled with health shattered women who will tell you that it doesn't pay to be too thin.

That is why so many thousands of underweight men and women are putting their faith in McCoy's Tablets.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 60-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two one-dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

Learned Physicians now agree that if you cannot get your supply of revitalizing mineral salts in Nature's own way, you must get them in some other way.

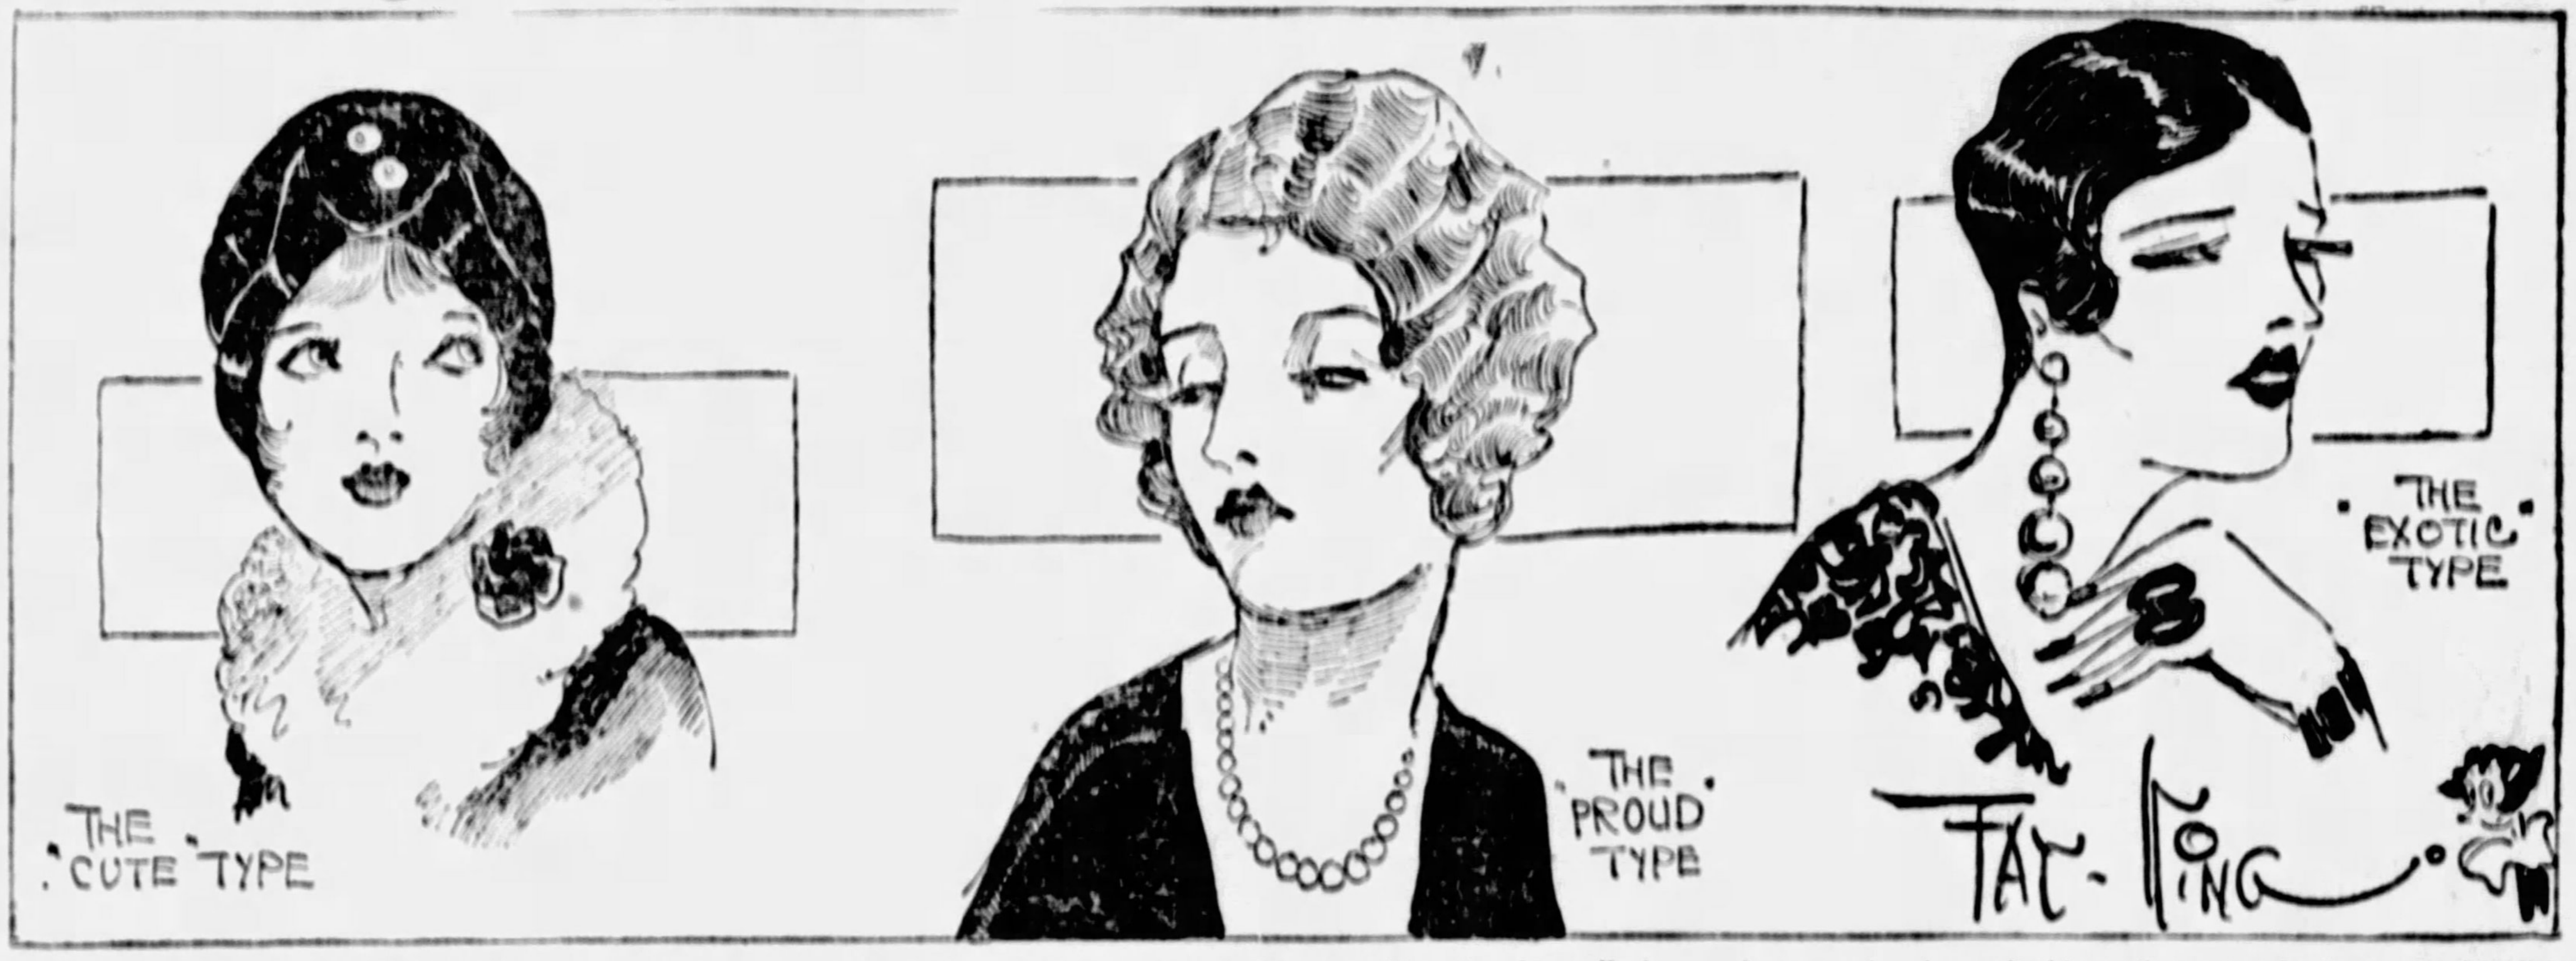
Fay King Discusses Three Types of Beauty



By FAY KING.

THERE are so many attractive types of beauty, the susceptible man who is matrimonially inclined must find it quite hard to choose a wife.

There is the "cute" type of girl. Usually wide-eyed and cunning. She may not be a beauty, but is altogether attractive. There is something child-like about her, and still she seems sophisticated. But she often lacks dignity and the air that can make her husband seem more successful to outsiders than he really is.

The reserved, proud type is more apt to have this quality. She wears clothes well and has a calm, condescending manner, that puts her on an equality in manner with the wives of her husband's more exclusive and prosperous associates.

Such wives are apt, by their very manner, to be the best press agents in the world for ambitious men.

The exotic type, which assumes the unusual and extreme in dress, needs, above all things, the proper background. If she is exotic in a cheaper way, she must be a Bohemian in Bohemian surroundings, with a studio and some line of art. If she is exotic in a more costly manner, then she must move in a very high circle, preferably international, and she must speak several languages. She should have an accent, and an intriguing name, otherwise being exotic in perfectly wholesome matter of fact surroundings loses its chief asset.

Pure Food and Air Needed by Infants

DR COPELAND

MANY mothers write to me asking why their babies do not develop as they should. They are disturbed because something has interfered with normal growth.

Probably the most important factor in this connection is wrong feeding. Improper foods, overfeeding and under-feeding are among the common causes for delayed development. There may be no actual disease, but the child is at a standstill—there is no increase in growth or weight.

Too many persons forget that it is just as necessary for little babies to have fresh air as it is for an adult. You can't put a baby in a clothes basket and l[illegible] some corner of the [illegible] rding the oxygen [illegible] infant. Of course, I [illegible]t you to expose the baby to a draft of cold air, or to expose it to cold of any sort. But the child must be kept in a room that is freely ventilated.

All you have to do to cause the baby to fade in health is to give it unhygienic surroundings. Dust, dirt and filth will undermine the health and prospects of the baby.

Just because a baby is little and cannot tell you what is wrong is no reason for thinking that uncomfortable conditions do not wear upon its nerves and health. It cannot be left wet and soiled habitually without having bad symptoms in consequence. Noises, bright lights and every factor that disturbs grown people will annoy and disturb a baby.

A young infant sleeps most of the time. On this account disturbed and restless sleep and sleeplessness must cause the mother some anxiety.

Indigestion and anger are the most frequent causes for disturbed sleep. I need not tell you that the indigestion usually comes from overfeeding or giving the wrong kind of food. A child may cry out in its sleep because of a pain of colic.

Of course, there are other kinds of pain than that which comes from the digestive organs. Lots of times there is found to be a trouble with the ear. The earache causes agonizing pain in little folks as it does in grown-up people. The child wakes up at night with a start and lets out a terrible yell.

It rarely happens that an earache comes on without some previous warning. There is discharge from the nose and slight elevation of temperature. On account of the stoppage of the nose the infant does not nurse readily. A little later comes the disturbed sleep which I have described.

Repeated colds, frequent attacks of earache, indigestion—all these are factors in lowering the vitality of the child. In consequence, development is delayed. Weight and growth do not increase as they should.

For the Lovelorn

"Sparrow"

DEAR MISS GALE:

You have given others very valuable advice so now I'm here to try my luck. I'm in love with a boy four years older than I. This boy goes to the same school I do and writes me notes. In these notes he is very affectionate, but when he sees me, and anyone else is around, he starts to act smart and slap, push and swear around me. I have already had one fight with this boy when he tried to kiss me over at school. We did not speak to each other for a year. Then one day two months ago we made up. My girl friend had a party and I took another boy from school. This made the other boy mad, and even since that we've not been getting along very well. Today I had another fight with this boy and I told him that we had better call it "quits." Now I'm very sorry I did this because he is writing notes to my very worst enemy. What can I do? Please tell me, Miss Gale. SPARROW.

It is the nature of boys to act "smart" before the girls they like, my dear. He has no right to get angry with you over such a thing as taking another to a party. You are both much too young to try to limit each other's friendships. He is trying to annoy you now so pay no attention to his writing to the other girl.

Longing

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a steady reader of your Lovelorn, but have never asked you for any advice. I think your advice is wonderful and I know you can advise me as well as others. I am a girl of 18 and in love with a boy six months my senior, but am not sure whether he loves me. His cousin and I are buddies and when I go to their house to visit he will walk from room to room wherever I am, sometimes sit opposite me, but won't say a word unless I say something, and then he talks as little as possible. He plays the piano and always plays love songs or sings them when I am around. He used to drink and run around to these wild parties, and I tried talking to him, and he has improved greatly and has a wonderful job. I believe he loves me, but he won't tell me and never looks me in the eyes when talking to me. He seems very queer to me, Miss Gale. Please tell me how I can tell if he loves me? Or should I ignore him, like he does me? I've tried in every way to encourage him, and for his birthday I gave him a scarf and birthday greeting card. He has kept them both very nicely. But do you think I should have done that? LONGING.

You have given him all the encouragement you can, my dear, so try leaving him alone for a while. You should not have given him a birthday present, since he has never shown any positive interest in you.

Worried

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am seeking advice and think I have found the one to give it. This is my third year of married life and have a daughter who is just one year old. She is very pretty and everybody admires her and tells me how pleasant she is. She isn't a bit strange and makes up with everyone. Now my husband is out of work for two months and doesn't look for any, and when I mention it to him we get into an argument. When he gets work he sticks to it, but the idea is "try and get him started." I am completely discouraged and at times I don't know what I'm doing, but it doesn't worry him at all. I feel that I cannot live with him any longer, then I think of my daughter, how hard it will be to raise her all alone, or to get work myself and leave her with someone. It would set me on edge of collapse. Now give me your good advice. WORRIED.

I don't blame you for being worried. Can't you appeal to your husband's sense of responsibility? How does he expect you and your daughter to live if he doesn't support you? He can be compelled by law, of course, but that is an extreme measure to take when a heart-to-heart talk might suffice.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

BLESSED BE THE FAT

IF CURVES really ARE coming in again and women are "turning feminine," the divorce lawyers had better start putting all their pennies in the savings bank, before the slump begins.

Because if figures really ARE to be worn this season there is going to be a lot more sweetness and light in matrimony.

HELEN ROWLAND

A hundred and fifty pounds of placid good nature are far easier to live with than ninety-eight pounds of nerves, temperament and restlessness.

A wise man will pick for a wife the girl who takes three lumps of sugar in her tea and pours cream on her baked apple.

A sylph may look more alluring in a one-piece bathing suit; but a little padding never spoiled the effect of a bungalow apron. And it's the bungalow apron type of girl who makes the most COMFORTABLE wife!

Chubby, plump women are notoriously good cooks and good providers. They do not try to save enough money by feeding their husbands on half portions to buy a second husband.

When a man comes in from the office all fagged out, it is far pleasanter to sit opposite a woman who actually relishes a good red beefsteak and is too absorbed in her creamed potatoes and salad to ARGUE about anything, than it is to face one who pecks at a lettuce leaf and talks about her diet, her neuritis and her acidosis.

Besides, the average wife who has grown fat in the service of her lord and master is apt to "stay fat." She has lost all her superfluous vanity and is too inert to go hunting around in search of new sensations and flirtations. A nice layer of upholstery somehow seems to pad a woman's nerves and keep her calm and sweet natured and peace loving.

And what every man is looking for in marriage is not thrills and excitement, but PEACE and comfort. The animated bone is too full of pep or restlessness to be comfortable to live with. Something is always gnawing at her vitals—hunger or ambition or vanity or a passion for excitement.

But an over-stuffed woman who is traveling around under the weight of a hundred and fifty pounds is too filled with well-being, cheerfulness and complacency to yearn for stimulation or to drag her tired husband out to all-night parties.

Those wise old Orientals knew what they were doing when they fattened up their daughters for marriage. They were preparing them to be shock-absorbers along the rockiest road in the world.

Reno is full of sylphs who have made nervous wrecks of themselves banting, dieting and "training down."

* * *

But have you ever known a jolly FAT woman who would travel that far to exchange one husband for another and one set of matrimonial troubles for another? You have NOT!

About all the happiness there is in the world is a by-product of work.—FRANK CRANE.

A DAY of much application and diligence, in order to gain much experience but not great financial returns, is shown by the predominant stellar influences. There is danger of duplicity and fraud as well as bad judgment and a tendency to despondency. But with these overcome there may be success.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of determined effort to reach the goal, but they should not be led astray by bad judgment, misanthropy nor fraud or trickery.

A child born on this day is likely to have obstacles to overcome in the way of bad judgment and duplicity and fraud, but it may overcome and win out if given proper training.

Scented Bath Crystals

A moderate temperature and a few bath crystals to soften the water are all that are required for the daily tub, which should be followed by a really hard scrubbing down. Scented bath crystals are easy to prepare. A simple formula is this: Take one pound of soda and spread it out to dry in the oven for about six hours. The oven must not be too hot. Break up the soda when cold, and put into a large bottle. Add half an ounce of oil of lavender and leave uncovered for about an hour. Then cork down and use as wanted.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hope, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food."—ARTHUR SKILES, 335 N. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Have You Constant Backache?

A Persistent Backache Often Warns of Sluggish Kidneys

EVERY day find you lame, stiff and achy? Feel tired and drowsy—suffer constant, nagging backache, depressing headache and annoying dizzy spells? Are kidney secretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

Know then, these are often signs of improper kidney action and shouldn't be neglected. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities.

Druggists everywhere sell Doan's. Since 1885 they have been winning new friends. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Pennsylvania People:

G. M. ROUDEBUSH, 112 W. 15th Street, Erie, Pa., says: "The kidney secretions passed too often and were unnatural. I had dizzy spells and headaches and couldn't sleep well, as I had to pass the kidney secretion several times. Mornings I felt stiff and lame. Doan's Pills soon relieved me and I give them credit for their promptness in making me well."

MRS. MALINDA WALKER, 29 Almeda Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., says: "I can speak well of Doan's Pills; they have never failed to help me. I felt tired and dull and was annoyed by dizzy spells. My kidneys seemed irregular and I had a dull ache across my back. It was a job to straighten after stooping, my back was so stiff. Doan's Pills proved their worth by relieving me."

PIRATES SEEK SECOND WIN TODAY

ZIVIC-KATKISH AWAIT GONG

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS
BEST IN PITTSBURGH — MONDAY, APRIL 16, 1928 — ONE

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Spirits of Pittsburgh Fans Rise as Pirates Win First Victory — Pitcher Dawson's Luck May Change This Year—Zivic Seems to Have Edge on Katkish in Bout Here Tonight —Layton Does Another Comeback—John Egan Shows Improvement.

John Miljus.

WHILE the known class of the team and the certainty that it would get going in due time kept Pittsburgh fans from worrying or fretting over the poor start made by the Pirates when they dropped their first three games in St, Louis and Cincinnati, there was a decided rise in the spirits of the home rooters when the news arrived from Cincinnati late yesterday afternoon that the Bucaneers had won their first victory,

Incidentally, they climbed out of last place, or broke their tie for last place, by passing the Braves, who suffered one more defeat and whose victory column is still barren,

THAT'S one step in the right direction, anyhow, and it ought to count for a whole lot more than a mere game won, as it should have quite an influence in helping the Corsairs to pull themselves together and in boosting their morale after they had lost the season's opener by a smothering score and then suffered two shutouts in succession,

Even if this does not prove a lasting brace, it will be only a question of waiting for the first-string pitchers to arrive at form, The Bucs have suffered more severely in this all-important department than any rival, and no team can win when its hurlers are not in trim,

MILJUS, for instance, did well enough for six innings on Saturday, allowing only one run in that time, but as a result the enforced loaf of five straight days in California, he, like the other aces, still lacks the staying qualities, Once they're all able to go the route, watch the Pirates climb,

---

At that, Pittsburgh has not been the poorest starter in the majors. Detroit, with its powerful attack, was touted to do big things this season, but the Tigers have just scored their first victory after having lost four games in a row. The famed Athletics, with their Cobbs and Speakers, have not yet tasted victory, and the Boston Nationals, after adding so much strength in Hornsby, Bell, Taylor and others that they were tipped to cause trouble in the pennant race, are still trying to hang up their first win.

ONE of the most gratifying and encouraging features of Pittsburgh's initial triumph was the fact that most of it was pitched by Ralph (Joe) Dawson. If this is to be taken as indicating a change in Dawson's luck for this year, the Pirates will be big gainers,

For though he pitched good ball after coming to the local team on June 15, last year, Joe was about the most unfortunate hurler in the National League, losing game after game through some little adverse break,

To show how badly things were breaking for Dawson as a Pirate last year it need only be stated that in spite of pitching good ball he lost his first four games and six of his first seven contests.

Now the diamond fates are starting to give him some smiles, instead of a steady diet of frowns, and the change for the better will mean a great deal both to the pitcher and to the club.

AMONG the outstanding sport figures of the present day, don't forget to have a place for Johnny Layton, three-cushion billiard player extraordinary,

Every time they get ready to number Layton among the has-beens, the St. Louis veteran bobs up again suddenly and proceeds to take his old place at the head of the procession,

Saturday night he won the National championship at the three-cushion sport game by beating Willie Hoppe in the final game of the Chicago tournament, 50 to 37 in only 46 innings. He had been trying for four years to regain the title, which he has now held four times, and his success bears out the contention of many cue followers in Pittsburgh and elsewhere that when in top form Layton is the greatest angle player of them all.

FRIENDS of John P. Egan, Pittsburgh's big-time football official, and who is recognized everywhere as one of the country's best handlers of important intercollegiate gridiron games, will be pleased to learn that he is rallying in fine style at Mercy Hospital from the effects of a recent operation,

John is now in his seventh week in the hospital, For a time his condition was serious, but two weeks ago he underwent an operation for a kidney ailment and he has since improved so rapidly that it is expected he will be able to leave the hospital in about two more weeks,

John P. Egan.

Egan's splendid condition as a result of his football work helped him to win his hard fight, and there is every assurance that he will be able to handle his usual quota of big games next fall. This will be good news to many big college teams, as the Pittsburgher's services are in great demand annually, as a result of his long-established fairness and his thorough knowledge of the rules and the game,

TONIGHT'S fistic clash between Jack Zivic and Jack Katkish at Motor Square Garden is likely to turn out to the advantage of local fans in more ways than one,

For not only does it hold out the possibility of the indoor boxing season here being lengthened at least one week by the matching of the main-bout winner with the victor in the Phil Scello-Larry Brignolia eight-round semi-final, but it promises to give the patrons on hand tonight more thrills than they have enjoyed in many weeks,

Jack Zivic.

ORDINARILY, an experienced fight follower would look upon a bout between former stable mates with suspicion and might think that there was "something on," but there is so much natural rivalry between the two Lawrenceville lads in this case that it promises to be a real battle, with the punching power and fighting spirit of both principals indicating that a knockout is not improbable.

As the snappier and quicker, if not the harder puncher, as well as his advantage in experience, Zivic looks from this corner like the probable winner,

SEASON'S BEST BOUT IS ANTICIPATED

THERE isn't room in the hearts of the Lawrenceville boxing fans for a pair of Jacks, One of them must be eliminated, and that's why Jack Zivic, erstwhile pride of the city's fightingest section, in a boxing sense, and Jack Katkish, the newest hope of the community, are fighting it out in the main bout at Motor Square Garden tonight,

A former sparring partner and worshiper of Zivic, Katkish has come along by leaps and bounds in the last few months and it was logical that the pair should meet in a test of supremacy, Other events also have led up to the matching of them, one a split in the ranks whereby Katkish left the management of Jimmy Bronson of New York, who also handles Zivic, Bronson, who

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

PETE, the lighter but elder of the two fighting Zivics, was talking the other day about his brother Jack's battle with Jack Katkish, former stablemate of the pair, slated for Motor Square Garden tonight,

Pete Zivic.

Pete has handled Katkish in the latter's bouts here since Jack became estranged from Jimmy Bronson's stable in New York, to which both Zivics still belong. However, the friendship is off between the pair at least until after tonight's biffing bee.

"What do I think of the bout?" Pete asked, in answer to my leading question. "I think my brother will win handily. I've worked out with both and I know what they have. I'll say this about Katkish, though. He hits harder than Brother Jack. When he lands you think a building has fallen on you. They're heavy blows. However, they lack the snap that my brother has in his. And my brother's experience and knowledge of how to conduct himself in there will return him the winner. Katkish will find him quite a different proposition than the Nick Susnells and Rudy Ceders, whom he defeated to earn the right to box this battle."

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent

CINCINNATI, April 16.—Only two Reds reached second on Joe Dawson in seven innings, the quality of his pitching being unusual. He seemed to have the Reds in the hollow of his hand in the eighth when Wally Pipp stepped up to the barrier to hit for Senor Luque.

PIPP hit a single over second base and Dressen coaxed a pass out of Louisville Joe. Marty Callaghan is a lefthand batter of the type that will not offer at bad balls. Hill already was warmed up so Bush having seen Hill control many situations of this nature decided to rise or fall on the spectacled ace. Carmen seldom fails down on a task of this kind. He was in water up to his tonsils but came through with colors flying.

THERE was a better dash to the play of the Freebooters yesterday afternoon. The day was very cold but a number of ripping fielding features were unfolded.

Glenn Wright seems to be on the threshold of a big season. He is in [illegible] condition, his strong arm [illegible] every day.

[illegible] ADAMS' three hits were [illegible] drives. Grantham clicked off two hits and drew a pass. Johnny Gooch hit the ball hard but could not get it into a safe spot. Luque preferred to walk him in the seventh with a runner on second and two out.

ADAMS is a corking baserunner but he made a blunder on his three-bagger that might have been costly. Sparky hit to left center on his long drive. He was turning second as Purdy threw to Horace Ford who went to the outfield for the relay. Apparently Adams did not raise his head to look over the situation. If he had seen it aright he would have remained on second but he had a fine break on the play. The relay of the ball was high and Ford did not hold it. Better handling of the sphere would have stopped Adams at third but the lapse gave him time to get there.

THE Pirates have won only one of their four games. They were runless for eighteen innings before the game started but they snapped the goose egg stuff in the first round of the second clash with the Reds.

LUQUE pitched in his characteristic smart manner. He set the Red outfielders at intervals and it was uncanny the way the Pittsburgh batters drove the balls to the spots located by the Cuban. On one occasion, with Traynor up, Senor [illegible] Purdy playing deep left center. [illegible] obligingly hit a hot liner that would have been a triple with many pitchers working. Purdy had only to move back 20 feet to nail the smash.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

hook up again today in court in New York in another one of the trials of Kearns' suits against the former heavyweight champion. They've said a lot of nasty things about each other since they broke off friendly relations and more dirt will be dug up in court before they're through. Each is bitter toward the other and one might think it would be dangerous to have them meet unexpectedly in a public place. What would they do? What would they say to each other under the circumstances?

Well, they met recently on the dance floor of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles—and nothing happened. Kearns and Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, and the latter's wife went to the hotel for dinner and the head waiter unthinkingly placed them at a table next to one where Dempsey was sitting. The chairs of Dempsey and Kearns touched, back to back. They could have killed each other without getting up, but both put on the chill and they didn't give each other a tumble. They danced on the same floor and once stood face to face as the music stopped. The air was charged with excitement, a buzzing of voices, but the two great haters kept on hating in silence. My word! A couple of rough babies.

Jack Kearns.

KEARNS, incidentally, is of the belief that Dempsey positively is through fighting. He says the former champion always has dreaded taking a beating, and even when he was champion talked of quitting while he had all of his "marbles." He said Jack in his present condition is liable to suffer more from the training camp workouts preparing for a fight than he is from any bout itself, for he never was a boxer and always has had to slug it out in these sessions.

Kearns criticised the manner in which Dempsey was handled in his Chicago fight with Tunney.

"If I had been in his corner, I would have sent him out to make a rushing fight of it from the start," he said. "If he was to knock Tunney down at all he would have done it at once, while he was strong. In other words, he'd either have knocked out Tunney or been knocked out himself. And if he had been knocked out in a hurry he would have spared himself the beating he received. I would have gambled everything on a typical rushing Dempsey fight."

Babe, Cobb "Through"

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service

NEW YORK, April 16.—They are ringing the curfew on old Ty Cobb over in Philadelphia, which may be quite according to script with everybody except old Ty Cobb and the man who is paying him $30,000 to help him prove that this will be his last season in competition. However, the part that isn't in the act is the accompanying innuendo that George H. Ruth himself is no longer himself, if you will pardon my hangnail. He is alleged to have given unmistakable signs of slowing up in the field and on the bases.

My understanding of the judgement of Ruth is that it originated with Miller Huggins, the latter being alleged to have popped off to the general effect quoted above while the Yankees were in St. Petersburg. It is to be hoped that the good Miller Huggins is responsible, for I note that several critics of baseball now have assumed the responsibility for discovering that Ruth has started toward an adjacent exit and, somehow, I always seem to have a cracked lip at critical junctures like that.

CAMP FORM MEANS LITTLE

It probably isn't good taste to argue an opinion of this kind with a man like Huggins, except to inquire just what magic he used in discovering that a player had slipped because of his performances in March. Training camp form, reading both from front and rear, always is to be discounted, if you credit all you hear.

Therefore, are we to believe that Ruth showed Huggins he was beginning to go during the 1927 season or in the 1927 World Series? If so, it must have been one of those private pre-views the movies go in for. Ruth seemed to be doing right well when they closed the books for the fiscal year in question.

However, if Huggins said so, maybe it is so. This will be the only break in sight for the discerning critics, in case the great man blows himself to a big year. For, outside of practical baseball men, the ability to tell when a player has slipped is largely confined to those who are able to se them picking the poor fellow up out of the dirt and bearing him tenderly away.

READY TO BURY COBB

That, apparently, is what they are making ready to do with the great Cobb. Reports on his decadence are almost unanimous. One writer declared his opening day performance against the Yankees was "pitiful." Others referred to Cobb's efforts in a slightly more restrained way, but left no doubt that they considered his days as a regular to be all over and done with.

Another observer likened him to Pagliacci, spoke of his appearance as "strangely old and grotesque," and deplored the fact that he had not retired "while there remained the unsullied memory of the Cobb that was."

Anybody who knows Cobb and his fighting spirit can answer that one. Ty's is the heart that never says die. There has been plenty of ball players who would quit, it was claimed, when the uniform was cut off their backs. With a guy like Cobb, it may be necessary to cut the back away from the uniform.

Wilkinsburgers To Honor McKechnie

At 6 o'clock Thursday evening McKechnie and every member of his St. Louis team will be honor guests at a banquet to be tendered them by the Wilkinsburg Kiwanians at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel in Wilkinsburg.

Leonard Cook is chairman of the arrangements committee.

FIGHT

hasn't been here for some time, has come on to handle Zivic against Katkish tonight and he has a gleam of revenge in his eyes.

BOTH KNOCKOUT PUNCHERS

Both Zivic and Katkish are knockout punchers and both have their partisans who can see nothing but a decisive victory. The fan army as a whole also expects a knockout one way or the other, and it has remained for this match, at the tail end of the season, to work up the most interest of any that has been held here since the indoor campaign opened last October. The largest crowd of the season seems assured and the Garden management has requested that the fans arrive early to avoid a last-minute crush at the entrances.

The men will weigh in a 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Four good preliminaries have been arranged. Larry Brigolia of Erie and formerly of Boston, who has knocked out Freddie Boylstein and beaten Young Saylor on points, will tangle with Phil Scello of McKeesport in the eight-round semi-final, the winner of which may meet the winner of the main event in a post-season clash. Joe Louder of the South Hills, the most promising looking youngster uncovered here in several years, makes his second appearance against Joe Pegley of Sharpsburg, and formerly of New Castle, in the six-round third bout, and two four-rounders will get the card under way. The second bout is a clash between two Pennsylvania Railroad division champions, Pete Kuzma, light-heavyweight, and Bob Krape, middleweight, meeting at 160 pounds, and Frank Todd of McKeesport, son of Bob Todd, the veteran manager, and Mike Hogan, just quitting the amateur ranks, will be seen in the opener at 8:30.

TEDDY WELCH STOPPED

Teddy Welch of McKeesport, who is slated for a 10-round windup with Steve O'Malley at the Washington Gardens Club, Washington, Pa., tonight was the victim of a technical knockout by Freddie Fitzgerald at Youngstown Saturday night and a substitute likely will have to be sent against O'Malley. Young Zabish and Banty Reihner meet in the semi-final at Little Washington and Bruno Scalla will oppose Chuck Semack and Dan O'Banyan will engage Tony Baldeferri in the preliminaries.

Bushy Graham of Utica was unable to box Pete Zivic in a 10-round bout in New York Saturday night because of an injured arm, and his brother, Frankie Garcia, substituted for him and held Pete to a draw. Garcia had a three-pound weight advantage.

YOUNG RUDY WINS

Teddy Welch's seconds tossed in the towel to end his bout with Freddie Fitzgerald in the seventh round at Youngstown Saturday night. Young Rudy of Charleroi, who had boxed a draw in Erie the night before, knocked out Rip Shirley of Canton in the fifth round of the semi-final, and Civi Osborne and Georgie Harris boxed a six-round draw.

The amateurs boxing in the A. M. A. senior championship tournament at Motor Square Garden Saturday night were forced to battle well into Sunday morning to complete their eliminations. The following were returned winners in the various weight classes and qualified to compete in the National championships and Olympic trials at Boston Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week: 112-pound class, I. Iovino; 118-pound class, Johnny Haggerty; 126-pound class, Joe Orsini; 135-pound class, A. Andrucci; 147-pound class, A. DeLuca; 160-pound class, Hugh Fetzer; 175-pound class, Max Ziff, and, heavyweight class, Bob Moody.

Frank Gordini and California Joe Gans have been matched for the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night.

DAVIES BOXES GOLD

Willie Davies of Charleroi and Andy Tomosky of Wilmerding box at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight. Willie meets Marty Gold of Philadelphia in a 10-round semi-final and Tomosky battles Johnny Erickson of New York in the main preliminary of eight rounds. Eddie Shea and Tony Ascencio are the windup performers.

Haakon Hansen, Norwegian middleweight, and Jack McKeena of Toronto box the eight-round main bout at Chicago tonight, with Teddy Esterbrook of Niles, O., meeting Howard Bentz, Milwaukee middleweight, in the semi-final.

Billy Rocap, former chairman of the State Athletic Commission and veteran sports scribe, has just been appointed assistant director of the mammoth Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia, where the first Dempsey-Tunney fight was staged. George W. Orton, chief of the annual Penn Relays carnival, will be director.

Three of Red Mason's fighters will box eight-round bouts at Salem, O., Friday night of next week. They are Young Rudy, U. S. Carpentier and Tug Phillips. Rudy will meet Rudy Thomas of Detroit, Carpentier will engage Billy Smith of Flint, Mich., and Phillips will do battle with Indian Charley Rodgers of Buffalo.

ORDER HEENEY BACK TO U. S.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, who has been enjoying a vacation on the European continent, has been ordered to return to the United States without delay to open training for his title bout with Gene Tunney, tentatively set for New York late in July. Charley Harvey, Heeney's manager, dispatched the orders to Heeney.

Tunney is expected to abandon his vacation in Miami Beach, Fla., this week and return to New York to make preparations to open his training camp at Speculator, N. Y.

New A. L. Prexy Proves Worth As Dopester

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP.)—President E. S. Barnard of the American League stood ace high as a forecaster of baseball today.

After a tour of the American League training camps, Barnard came back with the forecast that the rejuvenated St. Louis Browns would be a surprise in the pennant scramble. Yesterday, the Browns took their fourth straight victory by beating the White Sox and are topping the circuit.

"It's a long way to the end of the season, but just keep watching them," Barnard reminded last night.

Helen Wills Has No Thought of Marriage

NEW YORK, April 16.—(INS.)—Helen Wills, the California tennis wonder, who is making a stopover here on her way to Paris, declared today that she has no thoughts of marriage this year.

Instead, as soon as the French tennis matches are over, Helen will return to California, she said.

"I wish they'd stop calling me poker-face," she added. "I don't think I look like that, do I?"

Making her first appearance in the East since winning the women's national championship last year, Miss Helen Wills defeated Elmer Griffen, of California, in two of three sets at Forest Hills in a practice match, 2-6, 10-8 and 6-1.

Efforts to arrange a team match for Miss Wills at Berlin during her forthcoming invasion of European courts have been made by officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The match would pit Miss Wills and Miss Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., who is leaving on the Aquitania with the champion, against Fraulein Cecille Aussem and partner.

Gavuzzi Ousts Payne

TULSA, Okla., April 16.—(INS.)—C. C. Pyle's bunion derbyists, 77 strong, crossed the theoretical half way mark on their coast-to-coast trek after 44 days' travel today. Leaving Bristow this morning with 1,578.2 miles behind, the runners and walkers were closely bunched.

Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, displaced Andrew Payne, youthful Oklahoman, at the head of the van yesterday with an elapsed time of 265:44:05, a margin of 21 minutes 26 seconds. Gavuzzi, with Ed Gardner, Seattle Negro, ran a dead heat over the 34.5-mile lap from Chandler to Bristow in 4:27:37.

The thread of highway along the route was choked with hundreds of automobiles whose occupants waited for hours at vantage points to see the leaders and stragglers file past on the way to their Eastern goal. Bristow was reached with thousands gathered about the timers' station where the various pedestrians were enthusiastically greeted.

Harry Rea, Longbeach, Cal., recovering from a recent attack of shin splints, was third in 5:08:25.

Favors New Management

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP.)—Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, in a statement today suggested the organization of an American Olympic Association to take over management of America's Olympics teams "and end the domination of the Amateur Athletic Union over American amateur athletics."

Maj. Griffith, who is an official of the National Collegiate A. A., charged the A. A. U. with being an organization of "cheap politicians" who have gained control "over the best element of our athletic public by intimidation." The "intimidation," Maj. Griffith explained, was the threat of disbarment of any athlete who competed in an amateur event not sanctioned by the A. A. U.

All Olympic managers, officials and committeemen, he said, are "henchmen of the A. A. U." The majority of American colleges and universities, he said, are not in accord with the A. A. U. and its methods.

BABE AND LOU SWAT HOMERS IN EXHIBITION

BALTIMORE, April 16.—(AP.)—The home run twins—Ruth and Gehrig—gave Baltimore baseball fans, who jammed Oriole Park yesterday, what they wanted by way of circuit drives when each of them, together with Dickey, Yankee catcher, smashed out homers to win over the Baltimore Internationals by the score of 5 to 2.

Jack Dunn's Orioles started the scoring in the second inning and tallied another in the fourth when the Yankees hit their stride.

Eastern Team Wins In Olympic Test

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—(AP.)—The all-east amateur soccer team won the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games at Amsterdam by defeating the St. Louis Olympic team yesterday, 3 to 2.

St. Louis went down with flying colors, losing by a single goal to what was considered the best amateur team that could be picked outside St. Louis. The Eastern team was chosen after a series of elimination contests around New York and Boston.

The St. Louis players, comparatively young and inexperienced, apparently were playing under a strain and were too anxious to make good. Their goal shooting was not up to the standard shown in other contests and it was open shots which went wide that proved decisive.

The Eastern players did not get as many shots at the goal as St. Louis, but they were more deadly in the chances afforded. They displayed remarkable team work, considering the fact they had not been playing together. Their trickiness of foot was particularly brilliant, and this led to some clever passing.

NATS WIN TITLE

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP.)—In a game marked by fist fights, arguments, tripping and police interference, the New York defeated the Chicago Bricklayers, 2 to 0, to win the national challenge cup, which carries with it the blue ribbon of soccer in the United States.

The game was played on Soldier Field before 20,000 spectators. The teams played an overtime 1 to 1 tie last Sunday in New York and yesterday's match was a play-off.

Shute Turns Pro

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

ONE of the leading golfers of West Virginia and Ohio is about to desert the amateur ranks and become a professional, it has been learned from an authoritative source. H. Densmore Shute, who spends his time between Huntington, W. Va., and Columbus, O., has accepted a position as professional at the York Temple Country Club in Columbus, it is reliably said, and will officially quit the amateur ranks when he signs his contract sometime within the next few days. Shute is well known to local golfers, and, as an amateur, holds a national reputation.

Denny Shute is the son of Herman B. Shute, professional at the Elks Country Club, Columbus, formerly of the Spring Valley Country Club, Huntington, W. Va.

He holds the Ohio state amateur championship and is also central district titlist of the Buckeye commonwealth. Last year he copped the Ohio state amateur at the Miami Country Club, Dayton; the Columbus district amateur at the Columbus Country Club, and was second in the Columbus District open. He was tied with Peter Hart of the Marietta Country Club in the latter event.

Shute captured the West Virginia amateur in 1922 and 1925.

Bucs Seek Second Win

Zinzinnati in the stands and bleachers. The score of the Pirates' initial success of the season, and one of the few of the whole springtime, was three to two, the Rhinelanders had the tieing marker on the sacks when the contest ended.

Remy Kremer if not feeling just right for slab action, so Manager Bush has decided to use Burleigh Grimes this afternoon. Grimes worked a full game in St. Louis last Thursday, but he seems to be a better bet for today under the conditions. Jack Hendricks is expected to use Eppa Jeppa Rixey against the Pittsburghers.

SMITH SENT HOME

Earl Smith was ordered home last night, Dr. Marks indicating after an examination of Smith's injured right leg that the big catcher would be unfit for action for a period of 10 days. Smith pulled the muscles of the limb as he chased a bunt in Saturday's game. Earl has been instructed to report to Trainer Bert Munhall of Carnegie Tech for treatment.

Joe Dawson surely was a headliner in the Pirates' first victory even if he was not among those present when the triumph was recorded. Dawson reeled off a masterpiece for seven rounds and he experienced the strange sensation of leaving the game before one of the enemy reached third base.

Theres' one for keeper of the odd twists of the national pastime. The Louisville member did not allow a runner to get as far as the hot corner up to the eighth inning.' The Pirates, meantime, had garnered a two-run lead and Donie Bush was cherishing this small advantage as he watched every move of the former Colonel.

It might sound queer to state that Bush showed smart baseball in yanking a pitcher who did not let a foeman get as far as third base, but the statement is justified. Bush and other Pirates perceived that Dawson was showing some sign of weakening after he had held the Reds to one clean hit in seven frames.

HILL SAVES GAME

Carmen Hill saved more than one battle for his pals last season in the relief role, and despite his sore back, Hill was asked to rescue the Buccos yesterday. You see, it was this way—Wally Pipp batted for Luque in the eighth inning. The hopes of Red fandom for a couple of needed tallies rose when Wally slapped a single to center. Dawson lost his control long enough to pass Dressen, thus placing the tieing tally on the sacks.

Hill and Fussell were busy in the bull pen. Up came Marty Gallaghan, who seemed anxious to get a walk from Dawson. The count was two balls and one strike when Bush stopped play. Dawson seemed surprised when he was yanked, but Hill came in and checked the Reds, even under the handicap of a dribbling hit that scored the only run of the inning. Carmen made Gallaghan hit a roller to Grantham, the two runners advancing on the putout.

Pid Purdy, the little sensation from Seattle, who bumped a homer in the Forbes field stands one day last fall, stepped up. Carmen of Corry and Johnny Gooch were working on the tiny outfielder when he topped his shot on the grass for a scratch hit, the fluke scoring Bill Zitsman, who ran for Pipp.

Runners were on first and third with Kelly up. The crowd gave the big fellow a lefthanded cheer when he fouled out to Capt. Traynor. Walker fouled out to Gooch and the immediate danger was passed.

Another Pirate hero was Sparky Adams. Sparky made his first hit of the season in the first round, his drive to left-center netting him three sacks. He was caught at the plate a moment later, but Wright's scratch hit scored Paul Waner with a run that helped greatly. Adams made three clean hits during the afternoon. The Waner act went over big in the third for a run.

With Jabionowski pitching in the ninth, Wright reached base on Critz's fumble, he moved ahead on Traynors' out, took third on a passed ball and scored on Grantham's double to left. Critz's triple an an infield out gave the Reds their other run in the final frame.

BOXER IS ABSOLVED IN DEATH OF OPPONENT

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 16.—(AP.)—Friends of Les Marriner, slugging University of Illinois professional heavyweight boxer, were apprehensive today lest the death of his chum, Fred M. Bobzin, 21-year-old Chicago student, would ruin his fighting career.

Marriner, who has won 10 of his 11 bouts since turning professional via the knockout route, sparred with Bobzin Saturday. After the bout, Bobzin complained he was ill. An hour later he died in a hospital.

A coroner's jury absolved Marriner from blame in connection with the death, deciding Bobzin died from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Tech-P. A. A. in Track Meet Saturday

By JESS CARVER.

A TRACK meet in which NO world's record will be shattered, but which will provide more than one thrill and which will furnish excellent opening competition for the athletes of both teams is on the books for the coming Saturday. It will feature Carnegie Tech's varsity squad in opposition to the P. A. A. team in the Tartan Bowl.

Coach Guy Halferty's Skibo track and field squad this year ranks with the world's greatest unknowns. Coach Guy hardly knows whether it will be a "wow" or a "woof." A "woof" is classified with "busts," "frosts," "pains" and the like. The Skibo mentor has some men that he is counting heavily upon for some honest to goodness scoring and a few others who should show point getting stuff against most of the competition that will be faced by the Plaid this spring.

Red Kennedy, who dashed madly up and down the gridiron last fall, looms as a potentially strong sprint man. There is a broad jumper named Smith, who was going very well towards the close of the 1927 campaign. Don Lovewell is a capable weight tosser, and so is McClelland. Crawford is a good distance runner. All Coach Guy has to do now is to fill in the gaps in the other events.

STARS ON P. A. A. TEAM

On the P. A. A. team will be men of the caliber of Bill Robusch, national A. A. U. high jump champion and pole vaulter de luxe; Tiny Linn, former Pitt weight star and hammer tosser; Ted Corbett, distance runner, for Pitt captain; Archibald, runner and weight manipulator; A. E. Rose, former intercollegiate broad jump champion. McKnight, captain of the 1927 Geneva College champion Conference track and field team, a good quarter-miler, and a flock of other athletes of note and proven ability.

The college boys will have a big edge over the P. A. A. men in the point of condition. It's pretty tough to stay in shape once you get out of school and have no driving coach to keep you busy. But the most of the P. A. A. gents, especially Robusch, Linn, Archibald and Rose keep in pretty good shape all the year round.

Saturday's meet should be a good one.

Five hundred schools from the eastern part of the country will send track and field teams to the twelfth annual scholastic meet under the auspices of Carnegie Tech on May 5, Graduate Manager Overend announced today.

GRID DRILLS NEAR CLOSE

SPRING football practice starts on its final week both at Pitt and Carnegie Tech today. It is possible that Coach Sutherland may prolong the spring sessions a week or two longer for his Panthers, but the Tartan drills are almost certain to close this week.

Results attained at both institutions in the work so far have been pleasing to the coaches. The Tartans have been successful, for the most part, in imparting to the new sophomores the rudiments of the intricate Steffen style of play—which is mostly attack. Sutherland has also brought his new men, upon whim the success or failure of next year's Panther varsity depends, to a point where he can gaze upon their actions without experiencing a weakness in the region of his heart.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 16.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 5 to 6 points in response to relatively firm cables and reports of cold weather in the south over Sunday.

May sold up to 20.06c and later months also advanced to about the best levels of Saturday, but the forecast was for warmer weather in the southwest, and the upturn evidently attracted a good deal of realizing. This was reflected in reactions, May selling off to 19.93, the general market showing net declines of about 6 to 11 points by the end of the first hour.

Private cables said Liverpool advanced on covering, with London and continental buying on the unfavorable weather reports from the south, but that the demand for yarns and cloths was less insistent owing to a general disinclination to pay current prices.

GENERAL LIST IS NARROW

Quotations were practically unchanged at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. Business continued in fair volume, but there was no concentration of activity in any particular stocks.

Lone Star and Dixie Gas, which have been leading the market recently, were handled in the forenoon at prices showing no change from Saturday's closings. Announcement of the expansion plans of the Dixie interests at the end of the week apparently had been discounted by the rise in the common and preferred stocks in the preceding markets. Lone Star continued to hover around the 50-level where it has been pegged for the past several days.

There was a little trading in Carnegie Metals at small fractions away from 25 on both sides. This issue has been quiet for a month or more, but seems to have good support around current levels. The high reached on the last upturn in Carnegie was less than 3 points above the current selling price. Glass and building stocks were dull as were the heavy industrials. Prices, however, held steady in these divisions.

Mr. Milton S. Florsheim, Chairman of the Board of Directors of The Florsheim Shoe Company, has summarized in part his letter regarding the Company as follows. Copies of this letter may be had from the undersigned upon request.

BUSINESS

"The Florsheim Shoe Company is the largest manufacturer in the United States of men's fine shoes of the better grade. The business had its inception in Chicago thirty-six years ago and has grown to its present large proportions entirely through the reinvestment of earnings. The Company not only manufactures and sells to dealers, but also to companies controlled by it which sell direct to the consumer through retail stores.

Within a few years of the establishment of the business it was decided to produce only fine shoes bearing our trade-mark "The Florsheim Shoe". This policy has proven of great value in assuring the future of the business, through establishing a reputation for quality and a consumer demand. This aim has been furthered by the consistent and generous use of advertising.

The Company operates three large factories located in Chicago, two of which are owned in fee. These factories are of modern construction, equipped for the most efficient production of fine shoes.

The first of the retail stores above referred to was opened in Indianapolis in 1895. Its success prompted the opening of additional stores, so that today there are over fifty units located in the principal cities of the United States. There is a Florsheim dealer or a Florsheim store, or both, in practically every large and important city and town in the country. Since the close of the war foreign sales have grown consistently and offer a fertile field for increased volume. Recently the Company has developed and added to its line two shoes of special construction known as the "Feeture Arch" and the "Pli-Ped Process", which should prove an important factor in increasing sales.

PROFITS AND ASSETS

The net profits of The Florsheim Shoe Company, after deducting [illegible] charges including depreciation and after Federal income taxes at the rate of 13½% in lieu of those actually paid, for the five years ended October 31, 1927, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., Certified Public Accountants, were as follows:

Year Ended October 31	Net Profits as above	Times Pfd. Div. Req. Earned	Per Share Class A Common Stock
1923	$2,309,045.12	5.3	$4.68
1924	2,313,914.95	5.3	4.69

STOCK PURCHASE WARRANTS

Each $1,000 and $500 bond will have annexed a non-detachable warrant, exercisable on or before the maturity or prior redemption of the bond to which it is attached, entitling the holder to purchase from the Company 14 shares and 7 shares, respectively, of its no par value common stock at $10 per share if exercised on or before April 1, 1932, and thereafter at $15 per share.

Mr. C. O. Moore, President of the Company, has written as follows:

BUSINESS: Stamford & Western Gas Company has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware for the purpose of owning and operating natural gas transmission and distributing lines in the State of Texas. The Company will commence the distribution of natural gas in April, 1928, to the first of twenty cities and towns and contiguous territory in the State of Texas, under favorable franchises extending beyond 1956. The complete system will embrace approximately 235 miles of pipe lines, which have been under construction for several months and are under contract, guaranteed by satisfactory bond, to be finished by September 15th, 1928.

The lines of the Company will extend from a point about seventy miles west of Wichita Falls, Texas, to Stamford and Rotan, Texas, serving cities and towns in the counties of Hardeman, Foard, Knox, Baylor, Haskell, Jones and Fisher, which have heretofore been without gas service of any kind. Contracts at very favorable rates have already been secured for the service of many and diversified industries. Gas will be supplied to each town as connected to the lines, without awaiting the final completion of the entire system.

CAPITALIZATION: Upon completion of this financing, the Company's capitalization will be as follows:

	Authorized	Issued
First (Closed) Mortgage 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, (this issue) due 1936	$1,100,000	$1,100,000
7% Unsecured Notes	550,000	*
Common Stock (no par value)	100,000 shs.	84,600 shs.†

* These notes will be issued from time to time for the purchase of equipment.
† The remaining 15,400 shares Common Stock will be reserved for issuance upon the exercise of stock purchase warrants.

SECURITY: These First Mortgage Bonds will be the direct obligations of Stamford & Western Gas Company and will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on the entire fixed assets of the Company, now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to purchase money or existing liens upon hereafter acquired property. The gas purchase contract and all franchises will be deposited with the Trustee as further security. Pipe line rights of way to be mortgaged may be subject to any existing farm mortgages or other liens. The cost of the physical properties upon which these bonds will become a first lien has been estimated by Sanderson & Porter to be $1,700,000. The $1,100,000 First (Closed) Mortgage Bonds therefore represent less than 65% of this estimated cost.

SINKING FUND: The Indenture will provide for a Sinking Fund payable monthly to the Trustee, beginning January 1st, 1929, calculated to retire over 80% of this issue by maturity. The Company will further covenant to add to the Sinking Fund 50% of the proceeds received upon the exercise of the stock purchase warrants. Sinking Fund moneys are to be used quarterly by the Trustee to purchase bonds up to the current redemption price, and, to the extent that bonds are not so obtainable, then to redemption of bonds by lot at the current redemption price upon the next interest date.

EARNINGS: The net earnings available for interest, federal taxes, reserves, etc., have been estimated by Sanderson & Porter, Engineers, for the first five years of operation, as follows:

1st Year	2nd Year	3rd Year	4th Year	5th Year
$157,400	$248,000	$267,800	$275,300	$292,300

Maximum amount of annual interest charges on these first mortgage bonds is $77,000.*

* This amount will be deposited with the Trustee for the payment of such interest for the first year.

PURPOSE: The proceeds from the sale of this issue together with the Notes, and the proceeds from Common Stock subscriptions, will be used to reimburse the Company for expenditures made for construction to date, for the completion of the system, and other corporate purposes.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. All legal details will be passed upon by Hornblower, Miller & Garrison for the Bankers and Judge L. C. Penry of Texas for the Company. Engineers reports by Sanderson & Porter. Report on Gas Reserve by Ralph E. Davis, Engineer.

Delivery in the first instance may be in the form of temporary bonds or interim receipts exchangeable for definitive bonds.

Price: 100 and accrued interest

PRESSURE PUT ON MARKET FAVORITES

NEW YORK, April 16.—(A. P.)—The line of least resistance in today's stock market was downward. Renewal of selling pressure against General Motors, Radio and other recent speculative favorites, based in part on fears of an early increase in the Federal Reserve rediscount rates, inspired rather heavy selling throughout the general list. Pool operators endeavored to maintain bullish enthusiasm by bidding up a selected list of public utility, oil and automotive shares, a score of which mounted to new high ground, but they met stiff opposition.

There was little in the week-end news to influence the price movement. Mack Trucks and General Railway Signal sagged to new low levels for the year in anticipation of poor first-quarter reports expected shortly. General Motors, Dupont, Radio, Adams Express and Liggett & Myers B slumped 3¼ to 5 points before buying orders became effective. A number of others, including American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Brooklyn Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, Continental Can and Corn Products, dipped 2 points or more.

Union Oil of California was bid up 6 points to a new peak price at 57. Richfield Oil of California, Texas Corporation and Standard Oil of California also reached new high ground. Other issues to cross their previous maximum prices included American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light, Standard Gas and Electric, Gimbel Bros., Tobacco Products, Ludlum Steel, Fairbanks Morse, Otis, Steel common and preferred. Chrysler was heavily bought, one block of 16,000 shares changing hands at 72, following which the stock moved up to 73, duplicating the year's high, and 2½ points above Saturday's close.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Mellon Report Jars Market.

Stocks sagged suspiciously after a fairly steady opening today, but the heavy demand underlying the market served as a cushion against a wide-open break. The report that Secretary Mellon intended retiring from the Treasury next March was by far the most bearish news confronting the Street this morning. While that is practically a year away and much can be accomplished in the way of further strengthening the public debt structure in the interim, the stock market community's courage to go ahead with stocks just as the business world has gone ahead with business has been largely due to the knowledge that the nation's finances were being conducted under the guidance of the most consummate genius ever to occupy the treasury chair. An ex-officio member of the Federal Reserve Board, Mr. Mellon's sound policies have also been available for formulating the procedure of that institution during the great prosperity cycle of the past five years, a time when application of careful thought and action were even more necessary than were the period one of financial stress and business depression. To the confidence in Secretary Mellon goes much of the credit for maintenance of the high rate of business activity during his administration, and his retirement cannot but be looked upon with a measure of apprehension by the financial interests of the country.

General Motors Record Sales.

Retail sales of General Motors Corporation in March established a new monthly record of 183,706 cars, surpassing the best previous record in April, 1927, when 180,106 cars were sold. The figures included passenger cars and trucks sold in the United States, Canada and overseas by the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle and Cadillac manufacturing divisions of the corporation. Sales in March last year were 146,273. In making the comparison of the former high record in April last year, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, said it should be recognized that April normally was a larger month than March for retail sales on account of the seasonal trend. Sales by General Motors divisions to dealers in March were 197,821 cars, against 161,910 in March, 1927, and in the first quarter 492,234, a record, compared with 385,703 in 1927.

Employment Increase Slow.

Employment in manufacturing industries in March increased 0.7 per cent over February, but is 5.1 per cent under March, 1927, and 7¾ per cent below 1926, the United States Labor Department reports. In view of the recent widespread talk of unemployment, estimate for March came in for considerable discussion. The general comment was that the comparison was somewhat disappointing. The March percentage was nearly 2 per cent above January, but that was shown by the Labor Bureau's back figures to be usual for the season, the increase between the same months in 1927 having been exactly 2 per cent and approximately the same in the two preceding years. Attention was again called, however, to the fact that average per capita earnings of workingmen in all establishments reporting continued to hold up. The decrease from last year was less than 1 per cent, in spite of the decrease of more than 5 per cent in actual employment.

Predict Sudden Reaction.

Eastman, Dillon & Co., say: "It is but a matter of time when the wild trading will bring rather drastic correction, but it is useless to attempt to state the exact moment that such development will take place. When it occurs, however, there will be very little warning, and there will be little opportunity presented to get out of stocks. Therefore, while there seems little likelihood of any material setback for the immediate future, it appears advisable to gradually lighten commitments and get accounts in as liquid a position as possible so as to be able to accumulate the good stocks when reaction is experienced."

BUGS BAER Says

AMERICA likes the Prince of Wales. Not because he falls off his hoss. But because he gets back on again.

Therefore we are interested in all his foot races on horseback.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

He has tumbled twenty-eight times during his long career in the air.

His only mistake is in strapping the saddle to the hoss instead of to himself.

The Prince has ten skids to his credit this year. The ninth and tenth occurred during the High Peak race near Buxton.

If it is all right with the King we would like to give Eddie the nag we rode in the U. S. Artillery, unattached.

It was an old car hoss and stopped every fifty feet to take on passengers.

This would be an ideal jogger for the Prince. It was a dapple gray with pogo sticks for legs. It weighed fourteen hundred pounds and the last we saw of it it was standing at attention on Gen. Snow's chest.

We didn't know the meaning of U. S. Artillery, unattached, until we tried to ride that dappled hay trap. That nag could kick you so far you would be arrested for desertion.

If the Prince wants a good rodeo leaper we will give him that hoss and throw in a bale of hay and a road map.

Jacksonville Agreement Gets Standing in Court

The admission of the Jacksonville wage agreement between coal operators and miners as evidence in a Common Pleas Court case before Judge James H. Gray is significant. It was admitted over protests of counsel for a coal company, seeking injunction against picketing at its mine. It was offered as evidence that the miners have the right to picket in view of the breaking of the agreement by the employing company. It was contended that had the agreement been honored there would be no need for picketing.

Whether or not the contention is upheld by the court, its recognition of the Jacksonville agreement gives that instrument an official standing that is important. Senators and most of the coal operators, themselves, agree that the agreement is a legally and morally binding document, an opinion also held by the lay public, and the injustice of the breaking of which has been continuously and persistently indicated by The Sun-Telegraph.

Ballot Cheating Trials Should Proceed Swiftly

Trials of those indicted for vote frauds in the September primaries are scheduled to start today.

The public has been indignant over the long delay in the prosecutions, but there is general gratification that the political quibblings, responsible for prolonging of these suits, apparently can no longer prevent appearance of the defendants in court.

Most of these prosecutions should have been disposed of months ago, but, now that the date agreeable to political leaders who have engaged one attorney to defend all of the accused has arrived, it is hoped that both sides have their cases so well prepared that trials may proceed promptly and with as much swiftness as strict justice will allow.

Meanwhile another primary comes—next week. Let ballot thieves and other political crooks be warned! Cheating is out of date in Allegheny county.

Improved Produce Yard In Line With Progress

An improvement of the Pennsylvania Railroad's produce freight yards, between Eleventh and Twenty-fourth streets, to cost $5,000,000, is to begin in two weeks, it is announced. It will give increased space for the handling of the gigantic produce business of Pittsburgh, which for years has been centered in the district to be improved.

Alterations include extension of existing tracks, laying of additional ones and the erection of a new produce freight terminal and a new sales building, the plans for the whole having been made by the company in association with a committee of produce men.

This is not only a move for increased efficiency in a great business, but it is a step in harmony with the present expansion of civic, commercial and industrial factors affecting all citizens.

Ku Klux Klan Found To Have Dirty Hands

After sitting at a hearing in which he heard testimony of outrageous law-breaking on the part of the Ku Klux Klan, which he reviewed and commented upon with scathing pointedness in his opinion, it is not surprising that Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson should decree that "plaintiff's prayers for relief are denied and the bill is dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff."

The suit was to prevent five "banished" members of the organization from operating under its title and to restore some of its property alleged to be in their possession.

The effect of the decision is that the defendants are upheld in their contention that they are legal members in good standing in the organization, which, however, was decreed by the court to have flagrantly violated the laws of the state as well as its own purposes, as outlined in its charter.

In his censure of the klan Judge Thomson pointed out instances of such activity that should compel the attention of the district attorney's office of Allegheny county as well as the attorney general of the state.

A Good Plan

Frank A. Vanderlip, over in Paris, indicates that it might help solve our unemployment problem if our financial leaders would lend more money for investment here and less for investment abroad.

We are lending money to foreign governments and foreign business enterprises at the rate of about fifteen hundred million dollars a year. That is a lot of money. If that billion and a half dollars were spent in the United States, it would build a lot of factories and railroads.

Labor would be temporarily employed in construction work, and permanently employed in operating these things when constructed.

When American money is thus sent abroad, it not only prevents employment in this country, it enables the factories to be built abroad, providing permanent competition against American labor on the world markets.

The government, under present circumstances, cannot forbid Americans to make loans abroad. What the government can do, to meet the unemployment menace, is to appropriate generously for public works in this country, such as navy building, merchant ship building, Boulder Dam, good roads, Mississippi flood control.

Then some of the American money now being sent abroad will be devoted to this necessary AMERICAN construction work.

To talk to Pat Casey, who wrote "Wine, Women and War" anonymously and did a good job of it, too. Talked, also, to a navigation expert who told a hair-rising tale of a great ocean liner coming within a few inches of turning turtle on a maiden voyage several years ago.

In the evening to dinner with Eva Steinmetz and Otis Ralston and we had a pullet cooked in fruits, timbales of new asparagus and a stewed pear covered with a delicious pinkish sauce. Then to the Dutch Treat Show and thought it dull; so home to bed.

Such secret sentiment is not uncommon to florists. There is an actress, now retired, who during seven years of her stage career in New York and on tour received a single red rose daily from an admirer whose identity she never learned. She confessed the thoughtfulness touched her deeply and was one of the reasons she never married. Wait a second—that might be a publicity gag.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Voyagers

I READ recently an account of two "mice with prehensile tails" that were brought as curiosities to a professor in one of our central State colleges, having been found in a bunch of bananas. The professor recognized them as marsupials of a Central American species, and a search of the banana bunch from which they had come resulted in the discovery of four more of these strange little stowaways who had traveled from the tropic in a golden argosy.

This incident recalls the extent to which both animals and plants have shared in man's transportation conquest of the earth. Both our friends and our enemies in the two kingdoms of life go along with us, and when we settle a new land, and begin to develop its resources, our old contemporaries, not excluding those that he would prefer to shake off, manage to get across the oceans and enjoy in their own particular ways the advantage of new world surroundings.

With the greatly increased speed of transit that airships will soon afford on a large scale, it is probable that some forms of life that have not hitherto been able to survive a sea crossing, or the surmounting of mountain barriers, will manage to get over. A special air traffic quarantine may then become imperative. Modern medicine and hygiene have taught us the vast agency of minute parasitical life for both good and evil, and on the national defense line the supervision of this kind of immigration becomes more and more onerous as intercommunication grows in volume and rapidity.

A curious list might be made of the animals most frequently transported as unwelcome stowaways in vessels. They include tropical spiders, gorgeous in color, but frightful in aspect, and among them occasionally the dreaded tarantula, which finds its cabins de voyage in the interstices of banana bunches, as did the prehensile-tailed marsupials above spoken of. Small snakes also manage to make long trips with cargoes of fruit, while flies, moths and other insects come along, of course.

Every trans-Atlantic traveler is familiar with the sight of house flies most unexpectedly to him making their appearance as fellow voyagers in the middle of the ocean and enjoying a sunshiny day at sea with characteristic nonchalance. Self-embarked birds have been known to cross the ocean in a ship. The rat is a famous, though generally unseen, shipmate, and in years of plague perhaps the most dangerous of all the uninvited immigrants.

The disasters that have been brought upon the agricultural, horticultural and forestry interests of this country through the voyaging hither by ship and by rail of noxious insects, parasites and germs represent the loss of many millions of dollars, besides the blight inflicted upon the face of the land by the destruction of shade and ornamental trees.

But sometimes the worst of these incomers from across the seas prove to be those that man has invited and brought along with himself and his family, thinking to find them delightful and useful companions and valuable additions to the population of a new country. A famous example is the English sparrow, which, coming over as a cherished and admired friend, immediately took possession of everything in sight, made itself entirely at home, drove off the more desirable native sparrows and other birds by its aggressive and quarrelsome disposition, and multiplied until the law had to be appealed to to legalize its destruction.

In other cases dangerous parasites brought here for study have escaped and spread disaster by their attacks upon plant life. The latest phase of this matter is in many ways the most interesting; it is the importation of "mercenary troops" of small animals and insect parasites, to make war upon the noxious interlopers; and to help in keeping down their ravages. But, unluckily, the mercenaries sometimes join the enemy and turn upon their employers—as their human prototypes did in the days of Alexander, Hannibal and Caesar, not to speak of times nearer to our own.

Is Your Wife Happy?

WHAT kind of an expression does your wife's face bear?

To a great extent it tells what sort of a husband you are.

No use in trying to appear like a good fellow, a good husband and a genial one when your wife's face bears evidence that she is unhappy—has been unhappy for years.

The marks will be there even if she tries to hide them.

Usually after many years the lines become so prominent that there is no way of concealing them.

The best indication that a husband has treated his wife right is her happy smiles.

Not the forced, studied efforts, but genuine spirit-promoted smiles.

He may not have gleaned much in a financial way, but a man has been a success as a husband when his wife's face radiates bright, happy thoughts.

Doing his part to make home happy is man's biggest and most important job.

Get acquainted with the members of a man's household if you want to know the kind he is.

Hieroglyphics

MAN'S ancient writings, hidden through long years,
All undeciphered on the ageless
stone,
Reveal their tales of triumphs and of tears
When once their long-lost, long-sought key is known.
Before our eyes the strange procession moves:
The hawk-faced gods, the goddess of the moon,
And Pharaohs come again, with hates and loves
That passed away, as ours will pass, too soon.
Man, too, is like those scarred and timeless stones
Which, mocking, bear a record
none may read
To find what gods the spirit there
enthrones,
To glimpse the purpose back of dream and deed.
Dim hieroglyphs! Yet would we try aright,
The key of Love would bare them to our sight.

TAKING NO CHANCES—A lady attending a "stork shower" the other day brought for the unarrived guest of honor a silver flask because it was an appropriate gift for either a boy or girl.

Tales that are Told

Too Much to Expect

HE WAS an itinerant fishmonger, and the herrings which formed his wares might have been disporting themselves in the ocean the day before; on the other hand, they might not. Still, his lungs were in good order.

"Fine herrings, fower a penny!" he roared in a way that made the windows rattle.

A woman approached the barrow and eyed the fish with a certain amount of suspicion, which, in the circumstances, was not unnatural.

"Are they fresh?" she demanded.

"They're fower a penny, ma'am," was the guarded reply.

"Yes," said the other, with a touch of sarcasm, "I think I heard you say so. But are they fresh?"

"For aught I know, ma'am, they are."

"When were they caught?"

This was too much, and, adopting the sarcastic style of his questioner, he replied:

"Can't say for certain, ma'am. I applied for the birth an' death certificate of every fish on the barrow, but at fower a penny it simply couldn't be done!"—London Tit-Bits.

His Takings?

SHORTLY after the theater had opened its doors and admitted the playgoers, who had been listening to a succession of street entertainers, a young man walked into the bar and demanded a whisky-and-soda. When it was placed before him he produced a handful of coppers.

"I hope you don't mind pennies?" he asked the barmaid.

"Bless you, no," she replied. "Have you been singing?"—London Tit-Bits.

By Van

THE old lady had been studying genealogy, and was looking around for an opportunity to air her knowledge of all the branches, twigs and leaves of her genealogical tree. Little James hove in sight.

"Ah, James," she exclaimed, "are you not a cousin to my daughter-in-law, once removed?"

James scratched his head, then the gleam of the family brilliance shone in his eyes.

"No," said he, "we've twice removed—once to Morninside road and then up to the High street."

Her Brass Band

THE young married couple were having a disagreement while awaiting lunch at a modern Soho eating-house. The woman was grumbling because they were unable to afford the luxurious restaurants which had been a feature of their honeymoon.

"You can't have a brass band everywhere you go," said the man, crossly.

"Oh, yes, I can," snapped his wife. "I've got it with me now . . . on my finger."

Not Such a Bargain

THE young man who fancied himself as motor mechanic had bought a second-hand car, and had just finished some necessary repairs.

"You wouldn't think it was a second-hand car, would you?" he said, proudly, to a friend.

"Good Heavens no!" said the friend. "I really thought you'd made it yourself!"

Readless Reading!

NOW the General Electric promises us a machine to read books aloud.

The prospect begins to grow fabulous. The rich man of the future can lie abed all day, do nothing himself and make more money.

When he wakes in the morning he will give his instructions to a Westinghouse mechanical man, who will enter an airplane, fly to the roof of the Stock Exchange, descend to the floor, execute trading orders, and return at night to report the profits to his bed-ridden boss.

The boss, meanwhile will have spent the day listening by radio to the wise men of the world lecturing in Thibet, Berlin and Tasmania; or talking by radio telephone with friends in Nome, Tierra del Fuego; or watching by television a world series game at Forbes Field or a performance at the Folies Bergere in Paris.

Then, when night comes, he can be read to sleep by the new book-reading machine.

Gee whiz!

Slow Advance

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The advance may be very slow, but the world is steadily moving toward peace.

There has been a distinct change of sentiment among the peoples of all nations about the business of war. They have been made to see more and more its seamy side and not its glory.

Beside this, the profession of the soldier is not in as great repute as it was.

Time was, in the middle ages, that most promising young men expected some day to go to the wars. To be a fighting gentleman was considered the most splendid career.

Business and trade, once considered as half shameful and unworthy occupations, have now risen in the esteem of the public. It is no longer considered common or second-class to be a business man. More youths are looking forward to a business career nowadays and the idea of being a soldier is not so attractive as it was.

The United States has just completed a new treaty with France. Some may think it an idle gesture, but this treaty distinctly declares that war is not to be considered as a method of adjusting disputes between the two countries.

New treaties are to be made in June with England, Japan and Germany. They will go further than any previous undertaking in referring disputes to arbitration and in settling any matters which may have become subjects of dispute.

Germany has heretofore, under the leadership of the Kaiser, refused to become a party to a treaty which advocated arbitration, and has looked upon that method of settling disputes with disdain. She is now anxious to form this kind of treaty.

The Pan-American Congress in Havana, in spite of all the skeptical observations about it, showed a real underlying desire to arrange American affairs so as to exclude the possibility of war.

The trumphant flight of Lindbergh not only to France but to the South American countries was no glorification of a warrior, but the exaltation of one who was distinctly an apostle of peace.

Altogether, although many of our pacific plans have not prospered, we think that the world is steadily mounting up from the clouds of war into the sunshine of peace.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"We Have All Lost the Road"

SOMEONE sent me this question—"You're always preaching—do you ever practice any of the stuff you preach?"

That's a sensible question. It should be asked of everyone who presumes to advise other people. To it there is only one answer, to be given with meekness and regret.

Tolstoi gave that answer, once, with brave humility to those who asked him the same question. If you have ever preached beauty and then failed to reach it in your daily practice, Tolstoi's answer will comfort you.

"People say to me," he wrote, "'Well, Lef Nikolaivitch, as far as preaching goes, you preach, but how about your practice?' The question is a perfectly natural one; it is always put to me and it always shuts my mouth. I can only reply that I do not preach—passionately as I desire to do so. I might preach through my actions, but my actions are bad. That which I say is not preaching; it is only my attempt to find out the meaning and the significance of life.

"People often say to me, 'why do you not fulfill the Christian precepts?' I am guilty and blameworthy and contemptible because I do not fulfill them, but—I am trying to fulfill—it is not because I do not wish to fulfill all, but because I am unable. Teach me how to extricate myself from the meshes of temptation in which I am entangled—help me—and I will fulfill all. Condemn me—if you choose—BUT CONDEMN ME AND NOT THE PATH WHICH I AM FOLLOWING, AND WHICH I POINT OUT TO THOSE WHO ASK ME WHERE, IN MY OPINION, THE PATH IS.

"If I know the way home, and if I go along it drunk and staggering from side to side, does that prove that the road is not the right one? If it is not the right one, show me another. If I stagger and wander, come to my help and support and guide me in the right path. Do not yourselves confuse and mislead me and then rejoice over it and cry, 'Look at him! He says he is going home and he is floundering in the swamp!'

"MY HEART IS BREAKING WITH DESPAIR BECAUSE WE HAVE ALL LOST THE ROAD; and while I struggle with all my strength to find it and keep in it, you, instead of pitying me when I go astray, cry triumphantly, 'See, he is in the swamp with us.'

"You know that I am alone—you know that I cannot wish or intend to go into the swamp—then help me!"

Tolstoi cried out of his loneliness and confusion. You, too, have cried that when you have seemed to fail. But even in his humiliation Tolstoi did not doubt that he was on the right road—he did not turn against Truth because he himself could not always be true.

Do not doubt your road, even if others jeer at your staggering efforts. Keep on even though you stagger. And be gentle to those who also stagger on their road. WE HAVE ALL LOST THE ROAD. But some day, when we are a little stronger and wiser, we will all find our way home.
